'U.S. Committed to Aid Cambodia, S. Vietnam' . . . Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In yet another plea for emergency aid from Congress, President Ford says the United States morally committed itself to helping South Vietnam and Cambodia in the 1973 Paris peace agreements.

From the information on public record, Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger are using the aid limitations in the peace accords as "commitments" America must keep in a conflict which already has taken 46,000 American lives and $150 billion. There has been no answer to questions about secret agreements.

Ford wants $500 million more in emergency aid for Indochina — $300 million for South Vietnam and $200 million for Cambodia.

Congress has given no indication whether it will accept the commitment, but there is little sentiment for spending the money. Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., told the Senate Wednesday the United States has no commitments in Cambodia.

Civilian DC8 jets under contract to the U.S. Air Force are flying into embattled Phnom Penh with rice, fuel and 300 tons of ammunition each day. The money, about $4.6 million, comes from economic aid which Congress has already appropriated.

In Wednesday's news conference in Hollywood, Fla., the President said:

"Part of our commitment was that, in the process or as the result of the withdrawal of our military personnel, we would continue to supply arms on a replacement basis, and that commitment was predicated on the willingness of the South Vietnamese to fight aggression from North Vietnam.

"The South Vietnamese are fighting, are trying to protect their country, and are seeking to defend their country from invasion. It seems to me that as we look back at our participation in the Paris accords and the promises that were made, as long as they were willing to fight against aggression and invasion that we had an obligation to help them with military equipment on a replacement basis."

Asked about Cambodia, Ford said: "Vietnam is involved in the Paris accords. Cambodia was not, in an official way. So, our obligation, which I think is important, is that they want to maintain their national integrity and their security of their country against outside forces."

"The policy of this country is to help those nations with military hardware — not U.S. military personnel — where the government and the people of a country want to protect their country from foreign aggression or foreign invasion."

Article 7 of the agreement says the Saigon government and the Viet Cong "shall not accept the introduction of troops, military advisers, and military personnel including technical military personnel, armaments, munitions and war material into South Vietnam." It permits "periodic replacement of armaments, munitions and war material which have been destroyed, damaged, worn out or used up after the ceasefire."

"Foreign countries shall put an end to all military activities in Cambodia and Laos, totally withdraw from and refrain from reintroducing into these two countries troops, military advisers and military personnel, armaments, munitions and war material."

"The internal affairs of Cambodia and Laos shall be settled by the people of each of these countries without foreign interference."

The fighting did not end in 1973. The United States kept providing help to South Vietnam and the Cambodian government's fight against insurgents. The justification began subtly to change.

In a March 25, 1974, letter to Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., Kissinger acknowledged "the U.S. has no bilateral written commitment to South Vietnam."

However, he continued, "Our objective in Vietnam continues to be to help strengthen the conditions that made possible the Paris agreement ... The presence of large numbers of North Vietnamese troops in the South demonstrates that the military threat from Hanoi is still very much in existence."

At the time, Kennedy called the response "a new rationalization for our continued heavy involvement in Indochina."

Humphrey said it was misleading for Kissinger and Ford to say Phnom Penh will fall unless Congress acts. "They know that in all likelihood Phnom Penh cannot be saved with additional money." He recommended urging Lon Nol to step aside, a cease-fire and emergency relief measures.

Ford held out hope. "If they are able to maintain national integrity until the end of the dry season there is a possibility of negotiations to end the war in Cambodia," he said.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield took a more personal view. "I am sick a Cambodian and Vietnamese men, women and children being slaughtered by American guns and American ammunition," he said. "The more aid we give, the more killings there will be."

An Attempt to Aid State UDC

Carey Signs Bill for New Agency

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — A bill creating a new agency to attract investors to the state's financially drained Urban Development Corp. has been pushed through the legislature amid a crisis atmosphere. Gov. Hugh L. Carey's next move is to wait for the major banks to rise to the bait.

The plan calls for a new Project Finance Agency to buy UDC mortgages at a discount. Backers say the idea should reinforce the state's so-called moral commitment to stand behind the debt incurred to complete $700 million in UDC construction already under way, and convince bankers that UDC is again a good risk.

Carey told newsmen after a brief bill signing ceremony in the Capitol's Red Room: "I have not been sitting here biting my fingernails, waiting to see what the financial community was going to do..."

However, when he first unveiled the plan for legislative leaders late Tuesday, he conceded that a similar approach had been rejected by 11 New York clearing house banks during days of unfruitful talks. Carey was unable to convince the bankers to make a long-term commitment for financial backing.

Senate Majority Leader Warren M. Anderson lauded Carey for acting "very responsibly, apolitically" in his talks with the banks and in coming up with the bill to create the new agency. But,

Anderson said as he closed floor debate for the GOP, "The solution before us may not work, let's face that."

The plan, Carey admitted to reporters, should make bonds issued by the new agency "a very attractive offering."

That judgement awaits the verdict of wall street.

Sen. James H. Donovan of Utica, one of the Republicans voting against the plan, estimated it would cost $15 a year for every man, woman and child in the state for the next 40 years; or put another way, $60 a year for the average family of four.

The Project Finance Agency will discount, by 40 per cent, the nearly $700 million in mortgage money needed to complete the 65 UDC projects now in the works, producing an estimated $420 million in cash to keep the UDC in business, Sen. Roy M. Goodman, R-Manhattan, said during debate.

The legislation carried no appropriation, but the legislature — if the plan is accepted by the banks — would be asked to approve a plan for the state to make up the discount. That would amount to about $280 million, backed up by the state on the basis of a "moral obligation."

In return, the banks would be expected to open up a $400 million line of credit for the new agency to complete the 65 UDC projects.

A key difference in the bonds to be issued by the new agency would be that they would be secured by revenues from the projects as well as the state's "moral obligation" to make up the difference between eventual project revenues and debt service.

Legislature Approves CSEA Contract

By CARL GRAHAM

KINGSTON
The Ulster County Legislature in special session Wednesday night ratified a two-year contract with the Ulster County Civil Service Employees Association (UCCSEA) by a 25-4 vote.

The contract, retroactive to Jan. 1, ends more than five months of negotiations and nearly two months during which county workers have worked without a contract. Voting against approval were legislators Glenn A. DeBrosky (R-6th Dist.), George A. Kirk (R-4th Dist.), Charles Scala Jr. (R-1st Dist.), and William R. West (R-4th Dist.). Legislators George M. Barthel (D-7th Dist.), Majority Leader Ernest J. Gardner (R-5th Dist.), C. Freeman Lasher (R-1st Dist.), and Brian R. White (R-8th Dist.) were absent.

The contract calls for a revision of existing pay scales to $5,000 for Grade 1 upward to $15,692 for Grade 22. To this is added an 11 per cent across-the-board increase for 1975. For 1976, increases ranging from zero for Grade 1 up to $594 for the top 15 grades will be added. To this new base will be added an increase based on the 1975 Consumer Price Index, but it cannot be less than seven nor more than 10 per cent.

The major change from a contract rejected by legislators on Feb. 5 affects workers paid on an hourly basis. The rejected contract called for them to get a flat 13.5 per cent increase for wage increase with an additional 28 cents an hour tacked on for 1975. They also receive the cost-of-living adjustment for 1976 plus another flat 28 cents an hour raise.

A point-by-point comparison of the two documents reveals few other changes from the pact rejected by legislators Feb. 5.

Chairman of the Legislature Peter J. Savago (R-8th Dist.), estimated the cost of the new contract at "$1.5 to 1.6 million" and said there were contingency funds in the 1975 budget sufficient to cover it.

One provision of the contract that drew supporting statements from several legislators during a roll call vote is a job evaluation and classification study to be completed by the county during 1975 and submitted to UCCSEA for review. If agreed on, the plan would go into effect Jan. 1, 1976.

Legislator Richard D. Nace (R-2nd Dist.) said he had intended to vote against the pact but was swayed by the provision for the evaluation study. Lesie C. Kirschner (D-6th Dist.) and George Sisti Jr. (R-8th Dist.) also mentioned the evaluation and classification study in their remarks before voting, saying it would help correct inequities in the wage structure.

Hoover's Files Disclosed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Edward H. Levi disclosed today the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover kept in his office a total of 48 files containing derogatory personal information on the lives of public figures, including 15 former, and two current congressmen.

"By and large the material in these folders contained derogatory information concerning individuals," Levi said, confirming officially for the first time the extent of Hoover's long-rumored file keeping.

Darling GOP Choice...

KINGSTON
Kingston Republicans, locked out of city hall for almost ten years, think they've found the key: William K. Darling, president of H.F. King Corporation on Central Broadway.

"I most definitely think this is going to be a good year," said County Republican Chairman Albert Spada, who has said similar things about other Republican candidates for mayor at this time of the year only to find his hopes dashed in November by the Koenig-Gallo machine.

"Things will be different this year," predicted Spada. "We've never had a guy like Bill Darling come forward. We're very confident he can win."

There's still nothing official about Darling's "candidacy" although the fact that the Republican City Committee postponed its regularly scheduled monthly meeting tonight to next Thursday night seems to bode for something significant in the wind.

Although Darling was unavailable for comment, Spada makes no bones about the fact if he wants the nomination, it's his.

Spada said a decision hasn't been made on the second slot, alderman-at-large, but again referring back to Darling, he says, "Since word got around that Bill Darling might be interested we've had 15 or 20 well versed businessmen and community leaders come forward. A lot of people would like to run with him."

Spada said the party never gave any "serious consideration" to endorsing Mayor Koenig and Alderman-at-large T. Robert Gallo for reelection. We've got the horses to run our own race," he said.

Darling, a resident of Ring Top Road has been president of H.F. King Corporation at 721 Broadway since 1961. Previous to that he worked at the (old) State of New York Bank for 18 years.

WILLIAM DARLING

'No Decision Yet', Koenig

KINGSTON
While city Republicans seem to be off and running on Campaign '75, the man they have to beat for mayor prefers to play a pat hand.

Despite the fact that most reliable sources inside and outside the Democratic Party expect Francis R. Koenig to seek a fourth term in office this fall, the mayor says he hasn't made a decision. Queried by the Freeman today, he would neither confirm nor deny widespread reports from reliable sources that he and his running mate, Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo would be seeking reelection. For Gallo, first elected to the No. 2 spot in 1967 (Koenig was elected in 1969) it would be an attempt for a fifth term.

Sources close to Koenig indicate the mayor considers it a bit too early to be making definitive statements on his intentions. However, all indicators from Albany point to a June primary date, which by the "political calendar" usually means the nominating conventions will be coming up in four to six weeks.

Koenig faces no serious opposition in his own party: Gallo is set for the second slot and Alderman Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward), squelched rumors two weeks ago that he was considering a primary against the incumbent. Quick will seek reelection as Sixth Ward alderman.

Most observers expect "the team" (Koenig and Gallo) to wait until their Republican opposition is officially announced before making any announcements of their own.

Koenig has held elected office, with the exception of four years, since 1959 when he was elected alderman from the Ninth Ward at the age of 26. He was reelected alderman in 1961 but ran for alderman-at-large in 1963 with Frank C. Sass and was defeated. That was the last year the Republicans elected either a mayor or alderman-at-large.

Koenig, 40, lives at 51 Fairview Avenue.

Strike Closes SPCA Shelter

By TIM SCHUSTER

KINGSTON

Those dogs and cats in the Ulster County SPCA windows will not be coming or going at any price in the next few days. A job action was begun this morning by the seven employees, four full time and three part time, in protesting new board members and their policies.

Alan Kane, manger of the animal shelter for the past two years, explained the reasons for this action.

First the demands: employees are calling for the resignation of James Hadley and Frank McNilis from the SPCA board of directors. Hadley has been serving as the new personnel director and, according to Kane, has expressed no interest in meeting the staff.

Kane said Hadley also promised salary raises for the staff, even though "he knew they had no money for this." None of the staff members has received any raise since coming to work at the shelter, including Kane.

The staff members are not alone in their feelings. Support has been forthcoming from three other board members, who have stated that they will resign in sympathy with the staff workers if the resignations from Hadley and McNilis do not materialize. They are Marie Post and Dorothy Carlsson, both past presidents, and Dorothy Wilson, the corresponding secretary.

Members of the public wishing to transact dog and cat business with the shelter will not be able to enter the premises, as they will be locked, said Kane. Only the care and feeding of the animals will continue.

The shelter will remain closed for at least two days, he said, unless the board (reportedly scheduled for an emergency meeting tonight) takes affirmative action on the staff's demands.

Kane said that past efforts to communicate the staff's frustrations with the two board members have been fruitless. "We feel because of their disregard of our interests we must express our views publicly," he stated.

Board president Mary Russell said that she "deeply regrets the action by Mr. Kane" and the employees, adding that the board will meet, probably with legal counsel, "as soon as possible."

Sen. Mason, Mrs. Rapp Honored by Young GOP

SEN. MASON

KINGSTON
State Senator Edwyn E. Mason and Mrs. Catherine Rapp, a Republican committeewoman for many years, will be honored as "Man and Woman of the Year" at the Ulster County Young Republican Club's 15th annual cocktail party on March 8 at the Gov. Clinton Hotel.

Senator Mason served in the Assembly for 20 years before switching to the State Senate in 1970. He was reelected in 1972 and again in 1974 by substantial majorities.

Recognized throughout the state as a conservative Republican, Mason has been a critic of excessive spending and liberal policies at all levels of government.

Born and raised in St. Lawrence County, the 58-year old attorney now lives in Hobart. Mason is a former merchant marine, a construction worker, a teacher and a justice of the peace. He is a member of the American Legion, the Masons, the Delaware County Grange, the National Rifle Association and the Hobart Volunteer Fire Company.

He recently reintroduced legislation to protect animals, termed "the animal bill of rights." Former Assemblyman H. Clark Bell sponsored similar legislation last year.

Mason was hailed as "Conservation Legislator of the Year" in 1970 by the National Audubon Society for his Endangered Species Act.

"Woman of the Year" Kay Rapp has been a worker in the Republican Party for almost 20 years.

Born and raised in Sawkill, Mrs. Rapp has lived her whole adult life in Kingston. She recently resides on Green Street, with her husband, James Rapp. Kay, or Kitty as she is known to her long time friends, began her employment at the old Whelan's Drugstore on Wall Street. Now she is associated with the family business enterprises, Kingston Modern Cigarette Service and S & R Laundromat in Saugerties.

Over the years Mrs. Rapp has belonged to, and worked for, the March of Dimes, Heart Fund, the Cancer Drive, Catholic Charities, and the St. Joseph Altar Rosary Society. In politics she has been an officer of the Ulster County Young Republican Club and the Women's Republican Club of Ulster County. As a tribute to her years of service to the Republican Party, Kay was appointed in 1973 and 1974 to be a delegate to the annual convention of the New York State Association of Women's Republican Clubs. The Rapps have six children; Maureen, Kathleen, Beverly, Joseph, Vincent and Dennis.

Hinchey Warns Council on Arts

NEW PALTZ
Assemblyman Maurice D. Hinchey (D-101st), speaking at a recent meeting of the Ulster County Council of the Arts Conference, warned the group to expect attack but said they would have nothing to fear if they met their responsibilities.

Noting the recent attacks on the New York Council of the Arts by State Senator Edwyn E. Mason (R-40th), who represents the western and northern section of Ulster County, Hinchey said,

"I don't think you have anything to fear if you direct your efforts to benefit all the people of Ulster County and do your work efficiently and economically," Hinchey said. Mason has charged that spending $38 million on the State Council of the Arts is a "frill" during times of economic hardship.

Assemblyman Hinchey gave a brief historical review of the WPA arts program sponsored by the federal government during the depression and then discussed the post-war role of government in the arts which began when the National Foundation on the Arts and Humanities was signed into law in 1965.

"I would not be here," said Hinchey, "if I did not feel that there was a need for further encouragement of the arts not only in Ulster County but elsewhere in the state. The special ambience created by works of art is just as important to our well-being as the air we breathe. Unfortunately, those who manage to survive in a climate of sickly art are often as unaware of their plight as are people who all their lives have been breathing contaminated air. When the patient does not even know he is suffering it is difficult to spell out the costs of the cure."

Pledges Decline

KINGSTON
Robert M. Schnitzer, executive director of the Children's Rehabilitation Center, has called the sharp decline in cerebral palsy telephone pledges during the Feb. 15 weekend "very disappointing."

From $13,000 in 1974, pledges dropped this year to $9,000, with a corresponding loss of almost one-third in receipts from the previous year, he noted.

Mrs. Martin Oberkirch Jr., chairwoman of the CP Telephone program, attributed the drop to the long holiday weekend, with families away for recreation activities, as well as the current recession. "Whatever the cause, the center must continue to offer its services to a growing number of patients and must seek funds to make up the difference," she said.

The center provides aid for cerebral palsy patients and to those with speech and hearing problems. It maintains a center where the public may be fitted for braces and provides a psychologist and social worker, thus filling a vital role among the health services provided by the community.

Schnitzer noted that since the center is a non-profit agency, funded in part by the United Way, a reduction in telephone contributions affects the operating budget and services of the center and its ability to serve the community. He urged those friends of the center who have not yet phoned in their pledges to do so now.

New Sect Leader

A jubilant Wallace Muhammad, 40, is hoisted onto the shoulders of the "Fruit of Islam", guard of the Black Muslim faith, after his selection as the sect's spiritual leader during "Savior's Day" activities in the International Amphitheatre Wednesday. Scott Speaks Out On Aid Picture

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said today Congress "must take the blame" for continued bloodshed and political assassinations in Vietnam and Cambodia if it denies further U.S. military aid to those war-torn countries.

Scott also said he opposes further aid for Ethiopia and would like a suspension of military aid to Greece as well as Turkey while an agreement on Cyprus is negotiated. Congress halted military aid to Turkey Dec. 5, until there is progress toward a settlement.

Scott placed much of the blame for the Greek-Turkey problems on Cypriot Archbishop Makarios.

"Our trouble is Makarios really," Scott said. "Makarios actually wants the trouble to continue and this will offend people too, but it's true, because that keeps the Soviet government interested and it helps maintain his position."

Scott said he favors President Ford's request to provide Vietnam and Cambodia with $522 million in aid, but would not continue a fight in Congress for it if Congress decides to cut it off.

"I don't like seeing a country go to the Communists with the enormous number of political assassinations that will follow—in the thousands I expect in both countries," he said.

"I would like to stop the bloodshed as much as possible by the President's approach. If the Congress is unwilling to do it, then the Congress must take the blame, and I would feel that it would be useless to continue after we've run through the present legislative process."

Scott said he would favor sending food to both the Ethiopian and Eritrean people.

$900,000 Raise

LONDON (UPI) — The House of Commons has given Queen Elizabeth a $900,000 pay raise to help make ends meet despite complaints that members of the royal family just "open things, close things and eat things."

Deciding it's tough being a monarch in these days of double-digit inflation, the house voted 427 to 90 Wednesday night to increase the queen's yearly salary to $3.3 million.

Applause and cheers rang out for several minutes at the end of the vote, which climaxed a special three-hour parliamentary debate on the queen's finances.

But a vocal, anti-monarchist faction in parliament criticized the salary increase and called on the government to start taxing all the queen's income.

"The royal family has no magic about it at all," Labor MP Willie Hamilton said. "They are no more than glorified civil servants, one of whom has a crown on her head. They open things, close things and eat things. That is about it."

Fellow Laborite James Wellbeloved said Britons battling recession are increasingly disturbed by the extensive tax exemptions on the royal family's income.

"Those who decline to take seriously the widespread and genuine concern about taxation on the royal income do so at the peril of the monarchy itself," he said.

The queen asked for the salary raise to pay for her household staff of 20 full-time private secretaries, 78 clerical workers, eight librarians, 180 butlers, footmen and domestics and nearly 200 other employees.

A government announcement said the monarch would contribute $360,000 of her own money to help defray the household expenses and ease the burden on British taxpayers.

In supporting the pay raise, Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey said the "humbly paid men and women" on the royal staff make salaries averaging only $72 a week.

Berlin-Style Help for Capital

U.S. Begins Massive Airlift to Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — The United States began a massive, Berlin-style airlift today, flying in hundreds of tons of food to try to keep the besieged Cambodian capital from falling to Communist-led insurgents.

Guerrilla gunners fired three rockets into Phnom Penh's Pochentong Airport as the first jets arrived, but the planes managed to unload without incident.

'Situation Is Grim, But Not Desperate'

The insurgents fired another five rockets into downtown Phnom Penh this morning, killing five persons and wounding 14 others in the beleaguered city.

U.S. Ambassador John Gunther Dean appealed for more American aid, saying the supplies being brought in on the airlift "will be used up in a few weeks."

Dean told American newsmen the situation in Cambodia "is grim but not desperate." He said, however, Cambodia would fall to the rebels unless Congress grants more aid soon.

"The Cambodians will not be able to continue their struggle ... because we Americans will deprive them of the means to continue," the ambassador said.

Three civilian jets chartered by the U.S. government left Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Air Base at dawn for the start of a 30-day airlift of an estimated 17,500 tons of rice.

The Trans International and World Airways DC8 jets, chartered at $10,000-a-flight, arrived at Phnom Penh with the city's 2 million residents down to less than a week's supply of food.

"There were two rockets on the field," said K. W. Healy of Oakland, Calif., pilot of the first flight. "But it was a good flight. Weather was good, and there were really no problems at all."

The World Airways pilot said the rockets landed about a mile from his jet just as he took off from Phnom Penh for the flight back to Saigon.

In addition to the food airlift, the United States has been flying in hundreds of tons of fuel and ammunition from Thailand each day since the guerrillas launched a full-scale offensive in Cambodia on New Year's Eve.

President Ford, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and Defense Secretary James Schlesinger have warned that Phnom Penh would fall to the guerrillas within weeks without the airlift.

The Communist-led Khmer Rouge guerrillas have cut all Phnom Penh's road and river supply routes, leaving the U.S. airlift as the city's only remaining source of supplies.

U.S. officials said the jets will fly about 15 supply flights a day from Saigon to Phnom Penh to try to save the refugee-swollen Cambodian capital.

"Who Lost Indochina" —Next Question

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Who lost Indochina?"

Indochina isn't "lost" yet. But President Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger are saying that without more U.S. aid, Cambodia will be overrun very soon and South Vietnam will collapse shortly afterwards.

The question recalls a bitter period in recent history, one which profoundly affected U.S. foreign policy. Kissinger's Tuesday news conference raises the possibility such a question may be asked again.

"Who lost China?" was hurled again and again at the State Department during the 1950s by the likes of Sen. Joseph McCarthy, R-Wis. It often carried accusations of treason, of being gullible to the Communists.

Washington and Peking drew apart. Talk of reconciliation, of admitting China to the United Nations, was criticized. Conservatives and liberals found their political existence depended on belligerence.

April, 1959 — "The loss of South Vietnam would set in motion a crumbling process that could, as it progressed, have grave consequences for us and our freedom," said President Dwight Eisenhower. His secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, used as his metaphor a row of falling dominoes.

September, 1963 — President John Kennedy was asked about the "domino theory." "I believe it," he said. "China is so large, looms so high just beyond the frontiers, that if South Vietnam went, it would not only give them an improved geographic position for the guerrilla assault on Malaya but would also give the impression that the wave of the future in Southeast Asia was China and the Communists."

July, 1965 — Kennedy's "counterinsurgency" advisers had become 75,000 U.S. troops. "If we ran out on Southeast Asia," said President Lyndon Johnson, "I could see trouble ahead in every part of the globe—not just in Asia but in the Middle East and in Europe, in Africa and in Latin America."

One of irony of the next administration was that Richard Nixon, particularly belligerent about who lost China, would open up a dialogue with Peking and his foreign policy expert, Kissinger, would get U.S. troops out of Vietnam.

Tuesday, Feb. 25, 1975 — Phnom Penh, Cambodia's capital, is surrounded. In South Vietnam, communist troops are moving on Saigon. The secretary of state is asking for additional help, admitting the embattled governments cannot stand without the United States.

"I know it is fashionable to sneer at the 'domino theory,'" Kissinger said. "And we've been torn apart by the Vietnam War long enough. But I do not believe we can escape this problem by assuming the responsibility of condemning those who have dealt with us to a certain destruction."

Kissinger says if this commitment is broken, the United States will be considered unreliable. He talked of Congress, so far unwilling to add to $150 billion already spent, afraid of adding to the lives already lost.

"It is my belief that those who are responsible for national policy are accountable not only for the moment but for how it will look several years from now," he said.

In effect, he said "who lost Indochina" should be asked of a recalcitrant Congress, not the State Department.

But there will be an election next year, with indications Ford will campaign against Congress.

Heart Drug Found Beneficial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A drug that scientists once feared would harm heart attack victims appears instead to reduce the extent of heart attack damage, offering new hope for treatment of future victims of the nation's number one killer.

Dr. Stephen Epstein, of the National Heart and Lung Institute, reported Tuesday that nitroglycerin has been used experimentally in 10 heart attack patients and all have shown reduction in the degree of heart muscle injury, a key factor affecting survival.

The drug also was found in a series of tests on dogs to make the heart less susceptible to dangerous heart rhythm disturbances, which sometimes are a lethal consequence of heart attacks.

"This is still experimental and much work has to be done in defining the group of patients who will benefit," Epstein said. "We will also have to determine whether there are patients who will experience deleterious effects."

"Nonetheless, the initial results are extremely encouraging and we believe in the future there will be a very important role in the use of nitroglycerin in the treatment of heart attack victims."

Nitroglycerin has been used for more than a century to relieve the chest pain of angina pectoris, a condition caused when the heart receives an insufficient supply of blood because of partially narrowed arteries resulting from atherosclerosis.

Most heart attacks are caused by obstructions in one of the arteries that supplies blood to heart muscle. They deprive muscle tissue of oxygen and other nutrients and, as a result, that area is damaged or dies.

Scientists long have refrained from using nitroglycerin to treat heart attack victims because it reduces arterial flow and increases heart rate, both of which tend to increase heart damage. Nevertheless, Epstein and associates at the Heart and Lung Institute tried the drug on dogs subjected to heart attacks.

The extent of damage was reduced even though pressure decreased and heart rate increased. In addition, the use of a drug called methoxamine was found to counter the adverse effects of nitroglycerin.

"We were very surprised when the first results were the opposite to what we expected," Epstein said in an interview. "We stumbled onto it by serendipity."

Gearing Up For Spring

Apparently confident that the worst of winter's weather is now behind us, Anthony Rambazis of Hasbrouck Avenue tunes up his trusty two-wheeler. His optimism may be premature, but there's a lot to be said for the power of positive thinking. (Freeman photo by Carey)

Rose Hogan Makes It Official . . . Declares Candidacy

ROSE HOGAN

KINGSTON Mrs. Rose Hogan has made it official. She is a candidate for vice chairman of the County Democratic Committee.

Mrs. Hogan, a committeewoman from the 11th Ward of Kingston, has been vice chairman of the party for 10 years prior to being defeated by Mrs. Kathleen Quick two years ago. Mrs. Quick announced recently that she chooses not to seek reelection.

"I have never been afraid to discuss any questions with the county chairmen," she said in a statement released on Tuesday. (Mrs. Hogan served under three county chairmen.) "There were many times when we did not agree, but if any decision was for the ultimate good of the Democratic Party, I accepted that principle," she said.

Mrs. Hogan also spoke of her "total dedication" to the political organization she has been an active member of for more than 25 years. "I have never been afraid of the tedious, often discouraging work that is an integral part of the political system," she said. "I willingly took on any responsibility that was mine and worked diligently with each town chairman when my experience and knowledge would be beneficial to him or her."

In conclusion, Mrs. Hogan's letter to the 240 committee members in Ulster County stated, "With this solicitation, I offer along with my credentials, my pledge to meet with all of you. I want to know your problems, to work toward meaningful solutions. I want to know your criticisms, to defend or remedy the situations. I want to know your questions to give you answers. I want to work with you and for you so that together we will continue to build a stronger, more effective Democratic Party in Ulster County."

Mrs. Hogan has been employed as deputy city clerk for the past five years.

Mrs. Jane Chodaba, Saugerties town chairman, has also announced her candidacy for the post of county vice chairman.

Liberals Object to Charges

KINGSTON The Ulster County Liberal Party has objected to charges made recently by the Conservative Party of New York State that Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller is a "flaming liberal."

"We don't want him either," asserted Paul Atkinson, acting vice chairman of the Liberal Party in a statement released earlier this week.

"If the Conservatives think Rockefeller espouses a Liberal philosophy we can only suggest respectfully that the Conservatives have a very odd concept of what a Liberal is," Atkinson said.

"Rockefeller has never received Liberal Party endorsement during his entire career. In fact, the only thing Vice President Rockefeller has even been liberal with is other people's money. Certainly his 'get tough' drug laws, which he instituted while governor and which have still to show any signs of working, was, if anything, a blatantly Conservative piece of legislation."

"It is then most hard to understand why it seems to be generally accepted around Conservative campfires that Rockefeller is the answer to peace beads. Rockefeller demonstrated a callous disregard for human life when he opted to resolve Attica with a bloody massacre instead of negotiation and prison reform. Economically, he has never represented the little guy, the minorities, or even the middle class American or the average businessman for that matter. He has instead consistently represented the runaway, king-size corporate conglomerates."

Don Short, Ulster County Liberal Party chairman, noted that "The longer Rockefeller continued as governor, the more conservative he seemed to become."

Two-Edged Sword

It is often noted that in many respects modern technology is a two-edged sword. In many cases the benefits are countered, and in some cases they are clearly outweighed, by disadvantages.

On recurrent problem is that the processes or consequences of technology create new diseases. This has been known for a long time; it was realized decades ago, for instance, that workers applying radium to watch dials were developing radiation sickness.

The latest example of a man-made disease to come to light is an ailment which has been dubbed "meat wrappers' asthma." University of Oregon medical scientists have found that supermarket workers who seal plastic wrappings for meat develop a variety of respiratory problems. These may include chest pains or deep coughs, running noses, sneezing, nasal congestion, sore throats — even, in some cases, muscle cramps, headaches and a tingling in the fingers.

Sometimes the symptoms are quite severe; generally they last throughout the work shift. The researchers also found that some patients continue to show signs of the ailment months or years after quitting this kind of work, which indicates chronic and perhaps irreversible lung disease.

The illness caused by fumes generated when polyvinyl chloride film is heated to seal wrappings and affix price labels. What we have is another example of a health problem arising from an otherwise beneficial technology.

Bicentennial Era

The public is being moderately bombarded with reminders that we stand on the verge of the Bicentennial year, 1976. That year has understandably been made the focal point of commemorative activities.

It should be borne in mind, however, that 1776 was only the beginning — and not merely in the sense that 200 years of historic development have flowed from it, transforming the brash young colonies into a mighty nation spanning the continent. The fact is that 13 years passed between the signing of the Declaration of Independence in 1776 and the establishment of the government under the new Constitution in 1789.

John D. Rockefeller III, a director of the National Committee for the Bicentennial Era, called fresh attention to this the other day. He did so in announcing a program to make 1976 not only a year of celebration but also the start of a 13-year period of "tough-minded planning and accomplishment."

This idea reflects one very important aspect of the Bicentennial. It is not merely a milestone on the nation's historic road. In addition it should be seen as presenting an opportunity for renewed dedication to the principles which underlie our society, and for vigorous new effort to transform those principles into reality for all Americans.

Berry's World

"Can't we make our program a little more complicated — too many people might understand it!"

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Top CIA officials are debating whether to bring legal action against Philip Agee, whose book about his life in the CIA has caused havoc.

Agee listed everyone who had worked with him in the CIA in Latin America. He also added names provided, he said, by "a small group of Mexican comrades whom I trained to follow the comings and goings of CIA people before I left Mexico City."

It has cost the CIA "several million dollars," according to inside sources, to transfer the agents who had been fingered and to protect its operations in Latin America.

The CIA, however, couldn't protect all the local people whom Agee listed as CIA "collaborators." Among them were many who had only routine dealings with the CIA in such legitimate activities as drug control, antihijacking techniques and antiterrorist operations.

A number of them have been harassed with threatening phone calls. One reported that his daughter's life had been threatened and the wall in front of his home had been defaced.

In Uruguay, a taxi driver whose name appeared in Agee's book stopped at a traffic light. Another car pulled alongside him and an assailant emptied a pistol at the taxi. The driver miraculously escaped injury.

In Ecuador, an engineer on Agee's list appeared at the U.S. embassy to plead for protection. Another man, with same last name as one of the alleged "collaborators," asked the CIA for a letter attesting to the mistaken identity.

CIA officials doubt whether they can bring legal charges against Agee as long as he stays out of the country, say our sources. Agee told us by transatlantic telephone that he hopes to return home but that he will wait until he gets the green light from his legal adviser.

He is represented by Melvin Wulf, an American Civil Liberties Union attorney, who said he will withhold his advice until he talks to the Justice Department and learns its intentions.

"The only action they could bring against Agee," Wulf told us, "would be an espionage charge and that would be a fruitless prosecution."

Indeed, this may be precisely what the CIA has in mind. Our own CIA sources say that Agee has been kept under surveillance and that he has been spotted in the company of Cuban intelligence agents in both Paris and London.

Agee doesn't deny this. "I have seen them in Paris and London," he acknowledged to us. "I go straight to the Cuban embassy. Whether they were Cuban intelligence officers or not, I don't really care."

He added meaningfully: "I support the Cuban revolution."

He emphasized, however, that he had never been debriefed by either the Soviet KGB or Cuban DGI intelligence. But on his own initiative, he told us, he had gone to insurgent leaders and had informed them of his CIA activities against them.

"I am for the liberation movements," he said.

One source showed us documentation, which suggests but doesn't prove that Agee is under Cuban discipline. A press release, which Agee issued in London on Oct. 3, 1974, appears to have been written by the Cubans. Our source showed us language peculiarities, which indicate it was translated from colloquial Cuban Spanish.

This is denied by Agee. "I wrote that," he declared, "right on my own typewriter in Cornwall (England)." But he acknowledged that it had been duplicated for the press in the offices of a left-wing Latin American publication in London.

Our CIA sources also believe that Agee pulled his punches on Mexico's President Luis Echeverria after receiving instructions from Havana. Here's what allegedly happened:

On October 3, Agee denounced the Mexican press for omitting his account of a "close relationship" that he claimed existed between a CIA official and Echeverria.

"Mexican comrades have told me," said Agee, "that the reference to Echeverria's relationship with (the CIA man) was probably omitted by official censorship order, in itself not uncommon there, in order to save embarrassment to the incumbent." Agee carefully added that Echeverria "may have broken with the CIA when he became president."

A subsequent Agee interview, linking Echeverria with the CIA, was published in the December issue of the Colombian magazine, "Alternativa." Our sources say Echeverria let out a howl that was heard all the way to Havana.

Fidel Castro, eager to continue his good relations with Echeverria, sent a member of the Cuban politburo, Carlos Rafael Rodriguez, on a secret, one-day visit to Mexico City on December 18 to placate the Mexican president, according to our CIA sources.

Not long afterward, Agee got together with the interviewer, Gabriel Garcia Marquez, a left-wing, Nobel Prize-winning writer, in Spain, say our sources. Both men issued statements exonerating Echeverria.

Agee denied to us that he received any instructions from Havana to soften his attack upon the Mexican president. But the question remains: Is Philip Agee an idealist who soured on the CIA and seeks only social change? Or is he a turncoat who defected to the Communists?

On the Right

The Desire for a New Party

By William F. Buckley

I have lately done much reading, and much conferring about, the prospect of a new political party designed as a vehicle for Conservative American dissent. Those who are thinking about the subject are by no means unanimous in their conclusions. They are my brothers, indeed in one case the relationship is biological. In the weeks and months to come we will be discussing the question with increased intensity.

Mr. William Rusher, my colleague, has written a book which will appear soon, in which he states the case for a new party — for a realignment of the parties. And meanwhile, the momentum for a party will increase as the program of President Ford fails. It is, by the way, bound to fail because its premise is mistaken. Its premise is mistaken because the American public on the whole has for too long been accustomed to the notion that things can come to your door free of charge, and the rules are for other people to abide by.

I was much struck by a recent recollection of Mr. Paul Nitze, the brilliant strategic analyst who recently wrote an analysis of the direction — impotence — towards which the SALT agreements are taking us. He served under Dean Acheson as chief of the policy planning staff of the State Department. The time came to elaborate a sufficient strategic defense, and Acheson called him into his office and said: Look. What we really need is not something that we are by any means certain to get, because it will be whittled down by Congress and the public. But if we begin by whittling down what we think we need on our motion, then it will merely be whittled down further by Congress and the public. On the other hand, if we make out a case in which we truly believe, it will have the benefit of an internal cogency which, after all, is the final hope of a successfully self-governing republic.

The Conservatives in America are no doubt deeply frustrated by a generation's temporizing by the Republican Party. The most recent assault on Conservative sensibilities is the budget of Gerald Ford. He began by talking about inflation when he was inaugurated President, and now he presents us with a homeopathic budget. No matter what the intricate arguments, the fact remains that we propose to lick inflation by spending more money. When Congress was recently accosted with the extraordinary fact that 50 million Americans are now receiving free food stamps, it was impossible to round up more than a few dozen Congressmen and a half-dozen or so Senators who would go along with an effort to trim this absurdity.

So it goes. The firemen in New York City, defenders of civic rectitude and practitioners of personal heroism, are actually willing to strike. They follow the precepts of their children's teachers, who closed down the public school system in New York not long ago in defiance of the law they are supposed to teach their students to respect.

In the mid-1960s we were preponderantly the most powerful country in the world. It is quite calmly projected that the Soviet Union, within five years, will have six times the throw-weight we have. I say quite calmly, because the only blip of protest my round-the-clock antenna has picked up is fired by such detumescent guns as the Reader's Digest and the American Security Council: both of them valiant organizations manned by patriots, and both, so far as one can tell, utterly ineffective in mobilizing public sentiment.

In England the other day Mrs. Thatcher, on taking formal authority over the Opposition, announced that Englishmen yearned for principle. I think this is true of Americans too. What I am by no means convinced of is that a majority of Americans yearn for principle. I distinguish, in other words, between those who desire a third party (or, as they prefer to say, a new second party) because that way victory at the polls lies; and those who desire a second party because they desire that the American Opposition should speak words, and think thoughts, worthy of the dignity of rational men, born with a heavy determination to be free in a sovereign state.

Fed . . . Penchant for Elusive Goals

WASHINGTON (KFS) — The lesson may be getting through. The Senate's liberal Democrats, the mental retardates of American politics, seem to be mastering the fact that the gentlemen down the street at the Federal Reserve Board really can throw 6 million people out of work.

Led by William Proxmire of Wisconsin and Hubert Humphrey, of all people, the liberals plus one conservative, James Buckley (R-N.Y.), have introduced a resolution ordering the Federal Reserve Board to stop playing games with the money supply and start following a policy that gives hope of full employment and steady price levels. Heretofore, as Proxmire pointed out, Congress has taken the position that monetary policy is too complex a subject for the simple nervous systems of its members to grasp.

While it's true that a degree of rationality at the Fed won't solve all problems, it's also true that those Founding Fathers, whom our Capitol Hill crowd love to remind us of, knew perfectly well that prosperity is so closely tied to a wise regulation of money that they mandated Congress to take care of it in a very special way (Article 1, Section 8 of the Constitution). Instead, Congress spent most of the last century finding weird ways to shirk its responsibilities in this regard, while the nation oscillated between unnecessary booms and busts. In this century Congress created the Federal Reserve Board, which since its inception has continued to alternate between money floods and money droughts.

This painful foolishness has been indulged in against the best advice of the last 200 years. The United States Monetary Commission of 1876 told us what to do, but we didn't have the sense to do it: "It is in a volume of money keeping even pace with advancing population and commerce, and in the resulting steadiness of prices, that the wholesome nutriment of a healthy vitality is to be found." The Proxmire-Humphrey resolution demands that the Fed do just that, which would mean a steady growth of the money supply somewhere around 4 per cent per year.

Arthur Burns, the chairman of the Federal Reserve, and his colleagues aren't mean or corrupt men. They get no joy out of seeing millions lose their jobs but they are encased in an institutional situation which encourages disastrous decision making. The isolated independence of the Fed has grown to the point where it thinks of itself as a coequal branch of the government, when it is the "agent" of Congress as this resolution stipulates.

There is no public opinion check on the Fed because the public doesn't associate the unemployment lines of February with the mistakes the Fed made last June. Nor will the public develop an understanding as long as the Fed continues to make its key decisions in secret, only telling the world about them months after the damage is done.

The Proxmire-Humphrey resolution is the first step in eliminating the absurd practice of classifying the monetary policy of the world's largest economic power. As it is now, to use Proxmire's language, everybody from housewives to industrialists has to play "Russian roulette" in guessing about what to do with his money.

Even most members of Congress don't realize the power of the Fed over the economic impact of the government's budget. The huge budget deficits now being contemplated may be highly inflationary or they may not. In large measure that will depend on what the Fed does, which, as per usual, we won't know until long after the Fed's done it.

What usually trips the Fed up is that it uses its power to increase or decrease money to chase economic butterflies. The butterfly that gets it into the most trouble is interest rates. They are forever tinkering with the money to achieve some elusive interest-rate level which is of no particular benefit to anyone but the New York bond brokers who sell government securities.

Interest rates are devilishly hard to control, and the Fed has only been able to demonstrate a fleeting influence on short-term rates, but in the process of living through its fascination with such matters it is led to abandoning its duty to the economy as a whole. For the sake of suppressing unimportant fluctuations in the money markets, the whole country is put through the wringer almost by inadvertence.

These errors are explained away by the liberal use of incomprehensible jargon, but, as Proxmire says, "If we have learned anything in the last few years, it is that so-called experts always can benefit from the views of Congress. It's time to recognize this is not Plato's Republic . . . (and) monetary policy is more than a technical exercise . . . such decisions are essentially political."

An Incurable Disease

Editor, The Freeman:
With the Vietnam War not 100 per cent over, the U.S.A. turns savagely against its friends.

The time of great shock has set in, said France's big business paper "Les Echos" describing the U.S.A.'s assault against the economies of its Western allies only three years ago. U.S. capitalism made an annual profit from trade with Europe well over 2 billion 500 million dollars; that was wiped out in 1972, down to a loss of 500 million.

Looming behind that sudden change—Western Europe has risen to become almost equal to the U.S. in economic power. That is deceptive: Western Europe has leaped far ahead of the U.S. in trade, its share of world exports now runs 300 per cent higher than Washington's.

You see here a most remarkable confirmation of a prophecy which, quite understandably, our economists never saw.

Newspapers lately have become desperate to hide from the public what is really going on inside capitalism right now: you can sum it up in one shocking fact—the world's super capitalist power is heading fast for bankruptcy. Last February, West German bankers in one day had to pump 19 billion Marks into the U.S. "super dollar" to keep it from collapsing. Meeting after secret meeting was called in Paris, Bonn, and New York, where the billionaire "allies" shrugged at each other with all threats available. Results: Even though they closed the money markets for days, when they finally did open up again, gold soared to double its price in U.S. dollars. Since 1949 western capitalists have deliberately cut the worth of their currencies over 400 times. But up to 1971 the mighty U.S. dollar was immune to any devaluation.

Finally in one year, Nixon slashed it twice. Ever since World War 2, capitalism has headed deeper into financial problems. But always the great dollar "as good as gold" rescued other weaker currencies from collapse. Remember that $6 billion 400 million was lost by U.S.A. capitalism in one year.

As of now, the major capitalist money powers have declared a "truce." But La Vie Francaise of Paris said frankly: "This is a truce that smells strongly of gunpowder."

Our system, which used to be rocked only by periodic boom-or-bust crises, with the rise of the colonial countries to independence, now finds that there is no room to expand at their expense.

If you are intelligent, you can count on one thing: capitalism in general crises is sick, but very sick. From now on the world's stock exchange and money market will look more like hospital fever charts, and the cure is nowhere to be found.

Sincerely,
ANGELO DeLEWIS

South Viet 'Peace'

Editor The Freeman:
Two years ago our prestigious Secretary of State said "Peace is at hand" as the so called Vietnam peace treaty was signed. After two years it finally looks like "Peace" is in fact at hand in South Vietnam. Unfortunately as I attempt to spell the word "Peace" as he used it it comes our defeat and surrender.

At this time it is obvious that the South Vietnamese government will be militarily defeated by the combined efforts of persistent aggression by the North Vietnamese Communists and the systematic starvation of the South Vietnamese armed forces by the United States Congress. Of course, there will be a purging blood bath throughout South Vietnam by the Communists just prior to this "Peace."

Peace, as defined by the Communists, is the total neutralization of all anti-Communist forces and the establishment of a total communist government. Is this what Henry Kissinger and Richard Nixon were striving for in 1972?

Why did the U. S. Government spend almost 150 billion dollars and let 45,000 American servicemen be killed if it is going to let South Vietnam fall to the communists for lack of bullets?

If the Congress lets South Vietnam fall, can it be trusted to protect us from communist aggression here at home? It is urgent that you write your congressman and let him know where you stand on this most vital issue.

Need of Sports Arenas

Editor, The Freeman

I am writing this letter in the hopes that some energetic businessman will read it and come to realize the dire need for more sports arenas for Kingston and its surrounding communities.

Should the reader be a roller skating enthusiast, he will by now have attended the beautiful, new rink located in Port Ewen. And while there, he would have seen it is already unable to handle its overwhelming crowds. Filling it to three times its capacity, half the skaters are forced to "sit out" while the other half skate. Parents aren't just sending their children, they are skating right along with them. People are driving great distances to attend some coming from as far as Millbrook and Wallkill.

Taxpayer speaks

Editor The Freeman:

The Feb. 18th Freeman carried the Editorial on page 4, "Ruinous Budgets" and I hope all your readers gave it the attention it deserved because of its great importance and timeliness. On the next page 5 facing your editorial was an article on Senator Mason describing some of the reasons we New Yorkers are so overburdened with taxes. Both your Editorial and the story about the Senator on the same subject and you are to be complimented. We are just little people and we can hardly live and still pay these terrible taxes. We only wish that more newspapers took such a stand as you have, and that we had more officials like Mason and we would not have such terrible taxes. It looks to us as the most of the officials in Albany are just "YES MEN" and they act like jelly fish. What we need are more men who speak out loud and clear like Mason and who can say "NO" and stick to it.

People are desperate, our taxes are terrible and hope the Freeman will keep up your stand against them and to expose the reasons. We are getting "taxation without representation" and maybe we will have to have another American Revolution to protect ourselves.

Your Editorial was so good I cut it out and had it copied and have sent copies to other interested people.

Very truly yours,
T.A. ROBERTS
Saugerties, N.Y.

Now that pornography, crime and loud-screaming musicals have rendered TV and local movie theaters a source of the past for family participation, just what do we have left?

Back in the 1940's the people supported three roller skating rinks. Population has tripled since then in Kingston alone and today we only have two rinks. Actually, the Spring Lake facility is so obsolete it makes skating nightmare to the educated skater. We should have two more roller rinks and for those of us who prefer "blades" to "wheels," we should have an extra-large year 'round indoor ice skating rink.

Isn't it true Kingston has already proved how well it can resurrect its dead buildings; now let's see what it can do to resurrect its living populace. So here is your opportunity, Mr. Musingsman — the people will heartily support your endeavor! Mrs. Peggy M. Brooks Esopus, N. Y.

Stopping Recession

Editor, The Freeman:

The only way to stop the recession and turn the tide of unemployment is to increase the purchasing power of consumers. Any senior citizen who survived the depression of the 30's will tell you that President Franklin D. Roosevelt did exactly that to restore the nation's economy.

Both President Ford and Secretary of the Treasury Simon favor increased prices of oil by import taxes as a means of fighting inflation. But inflation is merely another name of higher prices. Higher prices mean less consumption. Less consumption means more unemployment. More unemployment means an intolerable depression.

When the head of Ford Motors and the head of the Auto Workers' Union told President Ford that they agreed on tax reductions as the first step in restoring the lost purchasing power of consumers, they were concerned with the welfare of this nation.

When President Ford and Secretary Simon advocated higher oil prices as their solution, they revealed an absolute disregard for people as well as ignorance of the fundamental principle of economics — that the wheels of industry are turned by the consumers' dollars.

Yours truly,
LOUIS FAGON

Failure to secure proper emergency medical attention should place Cher Bono in the "accessory after the fact," category rather than that of, "heroine", in the drug related death of one person and the near death of another.

Veteran Marine Retires After 32 Years

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. First Sergeant John M. Naccarato Jr. of Sawkill has retired from the U.S. Marine Corps after 32 years of service.

Sgt. Naccarato, a veteran of service in the Pacific Theater of Operations during World War 2, is married to the former Miss Theresa Cafaldo of Glasco. Sgt. and Mrs. Naccarato plan to make their home in Jacksonville, N.C., where the first Marine sergeant will open his own Body and Fender Shop and attend the Coastal Carolina Community College.

Marking his retirement from the Marine Corps was a commendation awarded to him by Brigadier General A.J. Poillon of Force Troops at Camp Lejeune.

Brig. Gen. Poillon's letter of commendation read:

"For outstanding performance of duty as first sergeant of Company B, 8th Motor Transport from August 1970 to December 27, 1974.

"For consistently demonstrating great personal initiative and pride in organizing the efforts of his unit and maintaining a high standard of proficiency within the company, with limited number of trained personnel.

"As a result of his diligent attention to detail and quest for perfection in duties, Naccarato was directly responsible for his unit exceeding the Marine Corps goal for acceptance rate in unit diary performance throughout his tenure as first sergeant. His professional abilities, devotion to duty, initiative and integrity earned him the respect and admiration of all those who knew him and were in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Marine Corps."

Sgt. Naccarato, the son of Mrs. John Naccarato of Brink's Trailer Park in Lake Katrine, enlisted in the Corps at Philadelphia, Pa., and took his boot training at Parris Island, S.C.

He served with the famous 4th Marine Division and saw action during World War 2 in the Marshall Islands, Saipan and Tinian and Iwo Jima. Sgt. Naccarato earned two Purple Hearts, one at Saipan and one at Iwo.

The retired first sergeant also has served at Newport,

R.I., Headquarters Marine Corps, Quantico, Va., three tours of duty at Okinawa, six tours at Camp Lejeune and a second tour at Parris Island as a drill instructor after completion of drill instructor's school.

Index of Trends Drops Again

U.S. Trade Deficit Up $211 Million in January

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. trade deficit increased by $211 million in January and an index of future economic trends dropped for the sixth straight month, the Commerce Department reported today.

The double-barreled report indicated continuing problems for the U.S. economy on both the domestic and international fronts.

Imports last month were valued at $9.62 billion and exports at $9.41 billion. This put the trade balance $210.5 million in the red, a slightly smaller deficit than December's $387.6 million in balance.

Commerce officials cautioned that under a new accounting method, imports are now being calculated on a "free alongside ship" basis rather than on the "customs value" basis used in the past.

Under the old procedure, the trade deficits would have been much steeper — $952.6 million in January and $1.08 billion in December.

In a separate report, the department said its index of leading economic indicators dropped 1.3 per cent last month with seven of the nine components of the index going down.

The index, which economists use as a tool for forecasting broad shifts in the overall economy, has now declined every month since August. Not since 1957-1958 has there been such a sustained drop in this closely watched business barometer.

The indicators that declined last month were: length of the average work week, new durable goods orders, plant and equipment contracts and orders, industrial materials prices, building permits, the price-labor cost ratio. New claims for unemployment insurance rose for the month but this is considered an unfavorable sign for the index.

Indicators moving up were stock prices and the change in consumer installment debt.

In its trade report, the department said it shifted to an FAS basis to make its import figures consistent with export data, which has been traditionally calculated this way. The FAS system calculates the transaction value of imported merchandise plus the transportation charges to the port of embarkation. Under the previous system, imports were valued on the basis of customs charges.

Under the new accounting method, imports rose 4 per cent in January compared to 3.2 per cent and 2.2 per cent in December and November.

Blood Drawing

KINGSTON
"In our continuing effort to make convenience a by-word to our group donors and their employers, the first on-site blood drawing will take place Friday, Feb. 28, at the Benedictine Hospital, initiating a new step in this direction," announced Arthur C. Chipp, president of the Ulster County Blood Bank (UCBB). Chipp explained that any organization, institution, firm, association or corporation in Ulster County may enroll in the UCBB's group program, with as few as 10 people qualifying as a group. The Benedictine Hospital enrolled in the UCBB program in 1973. Arrangements can be made for a speaker to present details of the group program by calling the blood bank office, Chipp explained.

In-Service Training Program

Some 50 Ulster County employees are expected to participate in the Local Government In-Service Training Opportunities course, sponsored by Ulster County Community College, which will begin March 3. The federally-funded program will be held at the Ulster County Office Building. Shown

Woman Named Project Director

She will be supervising all PFI programs within the Ulster-Dutchess-Columbia Counties area.

Ms. Gordon, a longtime supporter of the farm worker's right to self-determination, has worked through various publicly funded anti-poverty programs since 1967.

She received a BA degree from the State University of New York at New Paltz and expects to complete requirements for an MS degree in Human Resource Administration at the University of Utah this year. She is currently serving as chairperson of the Wawarsing Neighborhood Service Center in Ellenville and as a member of several other local organizations and boards.

Ms. Gordon's staff at the region PFI office in Highland includes Ms. Betty Monroe, Manpower Services Specialist; Ms. Carol Johnson, youth counselor and Max Faircloth, recruitment counselor.

Zuccarello Appointed as Dean

POUGHKEEPSIE

Dr. Louis C. Zuccarello has been appointed the new academic dean at Marist College.

Dr. Linus R. Foy, college president, noted that Zuccarello's appointment concludes a three-month screening of more than 180 candidates for the position by a nine-member committee of administrators, faculty, and students. He succeeds Dr. Richard LaPietra, who has held the position since 1969 and who will return to full time teaching in the chemistry department.

Currently chairman of the history and political science department at Marist, Dr. Zuccarello graduated first in his class, summa cum laude, from St. John's University with a BA in history and government. He holds two master's degrees from Fordham University, in education and political science. He was awarded his PhD in political science from Fordham in 1970.

Dr. Zuccarello taught social studies for six years at New Rochelle High School and English and social studies for two years at Mount St. Michael Academy in the Bronx. He currently holds the rank of associate professor of political science. Prior to his appointment as department chairman, he proposed and developed the current major in political science.

Dr. Zuccarello also serves as co-director of the criminal justice major at Marist, which he designed and introduced in 1973. This is a cooperative program with Dutchess Community College. He is also assisting with the development of the paralegal studies program which will be introduced at Marist this fall.

He has served on numerous on-campus committees and is affiliated with several professional associations. He recently received a Chataqua Grant for study of political socialization from the National Science Foundation, which is being conducted at Syracuse University.

He and his wife Barbara and three sons reside in the Town of Poughkeepsie.

Employees Are 'Appreciated' at Dutchess

RHINEBECK
Northern Dutchess Hospital's Employee Appreciation Day was held Valentine's Day this year, the third such annual event.

A free gourmet luncheon was served to all employees, with doctors and board members in red-striped vests and jaunty caps, acting as waiters.

The special serving, under the direction of cafeteria director Charles LaSeur, was served to employees on all three shifts, round the clock.

At a special Coffee Break Awards Ceremony, with the following employees receiving length-of-service awards: 25 years, Christine White, Nursing Department; 10 years: Richard Arnold, X-ray; Richard Kaelin, Housekeeping Services; Andrew Kierman, Housekeeping; Claire Quenzer, Nursing; Mildred Ross, Ward Clerk; and Katherine Johnson, Nursing. Five-year awards went to Walter Noble, Laurie Hart, Florence Rathbun, Linda Smith, Ruth Stuart, and Edward McCabe.

Special recognition awards were presented to Mrs. Vivian Gusha, Dietary, and Mrs. Grace Webber of Nursing as longest employed at the hospital, and to Mrs. Flora Teats in honor of her long and devoted service.

Kay Seifert and Ed McCabe were crowned Mr. and Ms. Northern Dutchess Hospital, voted to the titles by their fellow employees as best exemplifying the qualities of efficiency, kindness and co-operation.

A "You Must Have Been a Beautiful Baby" contest was the ceremony's final event, with baby photos of hospital employees as the object of a lively guessing game preceding the ceremony. Employees also won many prize awards.

Michael C. Mazzarella, administrator of the hospital, acted as master of ceremonies for the occasion, with an Employee Appreciation Day Committee of Evelyn Navy, Peggy Smith, Rose Rider, Kaelin, Alberta Larson, Barbara Eamma, and LaSeur. Ms. Smith also received a special award and gift.

Employees Appreciated

February 14 was more than just Valentine's Day at Northern Dutchess Hospital. It was also Employee Appreciation Day, the third such annual event. Here Bob Fried (left) and Leonard Zneimer, members of the board of directors, serve the free gourmet lunch to staff members. (Freeman photo)

Land Developers Urge Support For Catskill Study Commission

HUNTER

The New York State Land Developers Association has urged Gov. Hugh Carey to support the Catskill Study Commission's proposal that its life be extended for another two years.

The commission, which released its preliminary report two weeks ago after a two-year study of the Catskill region, is scheduled to expire

March 31. The state legislature and Gov. Carey must both approve the extension and the commission's application for additional operation-funds.

In a letter to the Governor, Curt A. Schurm, president of the Land Developers Association, stated, "The natural wonders of the Catskill region must be preserved, while they bear the increasing burden of a people in a almost desperate search for land, for recreation and diversion."

Schurm added, "Now as the commission moves into the definitive reporting phase of its work, I would urge you to continue and strengthen it through a two-year extension and appropriate budget funds. Thus, a modest investment of state money now will pay dividends for future generations."

"Although some builders and developers might fight good planning and restrictive regulations recommended by the commission, they are the rascals of the land business," Schurm said in a press release accompanying a copy of his letter to Carey, "Responsible builders, developers and large landowners welcome the advice and guidance the commission offers Catskill region communities."

The commission specifically wants the extension because it claims it needs the time to develop a specific land use program and a policy for the future economic development of the region. The commission has also recommended that a permanent regulatory body be formed to help implement the new policies when the extension expires.

Since last year, the commission has released a series of reports covering various aspects of life in the Catskill region. In his letter, Schurm noted that reports dealing with Resorts and Tourism and Local Government "are invaluable studies for use by builders, developers and community leaders interested and concerned with the orderly development of the Catskill region."

The individual reports, prepared by the commission's paid consultants, were consolidated into the preliminary report released two weeks ago. The final report, which may take into consideration some public objections to items in the preliminary report, will be released before the end of March.

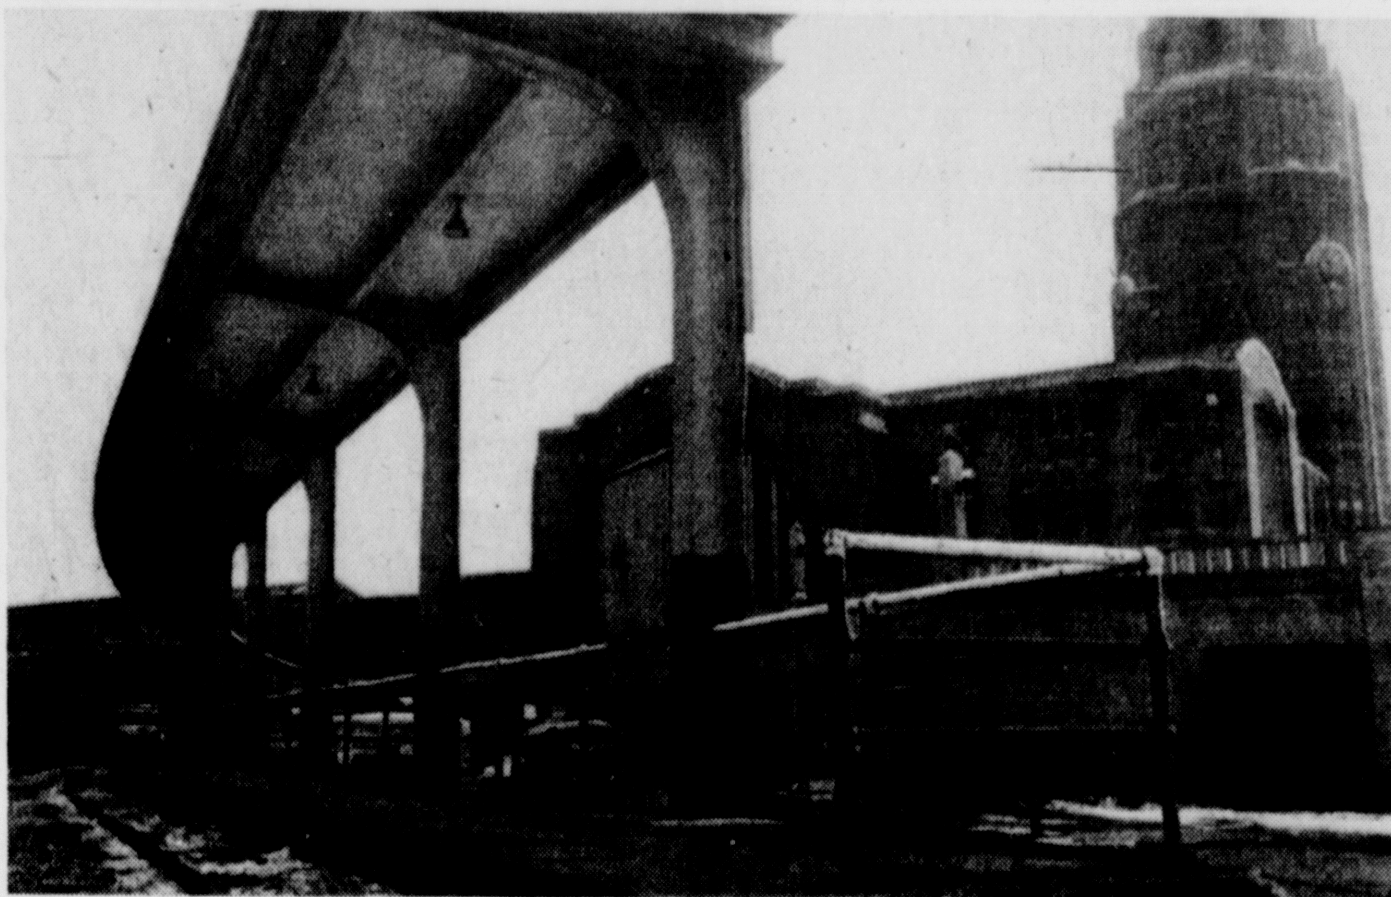

Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey Jr. (D-Saugerties) has announced that he will sponsor legislation calling for a two year extension of the commission.

There has already been some opposition to the commission's request for a longer life, with most of it coming from residents of Sullivan County. Other counties covered by the regional commission include Ulster, Greene, Delaware, Otsego, Schoharie, and part of Albany county.

The Land Developers Association, based in Hunter, is an organization comprised of professional land developers, contractors and builders. Schurm's letter was also sent to members of the state assembly and senate, as well as Ogden Reid, Commissioner of the Department of Environmental Conservation.

Loading Docks Stand Idle

The loading docks sit idle and action is almost at a standstill at the once-bustling, massive Central Train Terminal in Buffalo. The declining railroad business was dealt another blow Wednesday when a preliminary plan released by the U.S. Railway Association recommended the reduction or elimination of rail service in many areas of upstate New York. (UPI)

USRA Plan Displeases Officials

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Top state officials say they're just plain unhappy with a federal proposal which would discard hundreds of miles of railroad lines in New York State.

Both Gov. Hugh L. Carey and Raymond T. Schuler, Carey's transportation commissioner, wasted little time in commenting on Wednesday's recommendations by the U.S. Railway Association. Carey labeled the proposal "utterly unacceptable." Schuler said shippers and consumers alike "simply cannot accept" the recommendations.

The USRA recommended elimination of nearly 1,000 miles of track, mostly in the upstate area — unless state and local governments agree to subsidize costs.

"It is apparent that the USRA is continuing to advocate the mass abandonment approach ... as the means of restoring the region's bankrupt railroads to economic self-sufficiency," the governor said.

Although the 975 miles of track recommended for abandonment is about half the trackage termed "potentially excess" in an earlier report, Carey said that even that loss "would be an intolerable blow to the social and economic wellbeing of our citizens."

Schuler said shippers and consumers "simply cannot accept a plan which could lop some 975 miles from their state's rail freight network and which threatens mainline and branchline customers alike with less frequent and more costly service."

He criticized the branchline recommendations as "deficient," claiming that USRA used inaccurate data in determining the profitability of the branches.

Within a few hours of the release of the report, state officials were informed that an error had been made in the proposed elimination of the Lehigh Valley line from Sayre, Pa. to Ithaca. The federal planners missed almost 10,000 carloads a year, handled at the Milliken Station of New York State Electric & Gas Co. and Cargill Salt Co. at Ludlowville, near Ithaca, in making their recommendation.

The line, therefore, is not recommended for exclusion from the proposed new rail system as the report stated.

Schuler said his initial review of the plan indicated that errors of understated traffic could be found on other branches slated for elimination. As soon as his department completes its review of the proposals, Schuler said detailed analysis will be prepared for presentation at ICC hearings on the plan.

The public hearings are to begin March 17 at Buffalo, Syracuse and Albany.

In Roanoke, Va., the chief executive of the Norfolk & Western Railway Co. said his firm could not voluntarily take over unprofitable bankrupt rail lines in the Northeast. John P. Fishwick, N&W's president and chief executive, said his railroad would like to cooperate with a proposed federal plan to reorganize the bankrupt rails. But he said it could only do so only on a sound business basis.

The USRA plan calls for a regional system in which the 14-state N&W system would take over the bankrupt Erie Lackawanna Railroad's lines into New York State, eastern Pennsylvania and the Northern New Jersey-New York metropolitan area.

"We think USRA has done a good job in analyzing the difficulties involved in restructuring of the bankrupt Northeast railroads, but we are not convinced that it has proposed the best solution," Fishwick said.

"While we have not had time to analyze the financial projections, we question if the proposed plan would be viable without continuing government financial participation."

WIN Gardens Proposed for Ellenville

ELLENVILLE

The increasing inability of America's elderly to buy decent food at affordable prices — as well as a disconcerting trend that has seen many young people reject participation in local government — has prompted a somewhat unique proposal in the Village of Ellenville.

Trustee Sol Sandler wants to plant "WIN" vegetable gardens on the four empty urban renewal lots in the village.

Sandler, who made the suggestion at a recent village board meeting, noted that the gardens would serve a two-fold purpose: provide the people with inexpensive food to help supplement their diet and put the vacant, barren ("I think they're ugly," said Sandler) lots to good use.

Sandler would parcel out the lots to whoever wants to use them, but he said he would prefer that senior citizens and teenagers participate in the program. "It would give the older people a chance to save some money," said Sandler, "and might help stimulate some community interest among the young people."

The whole thing, of course, is still in the planning stages, and no official action has been taken yet. Village Manager Moe Pukalis has been directed to approach several of the major seed companies for some free donations, and to inquire about obtaining some top soil for the gardens.

Sandler sees no legal difficulties in implementing such a plan, even though it is without precedent in this area. Approval would first have to be obtained from the village's Urban Renewal Board, but it just so happens that the village board and the UR board are comprised of the same people.

"It's a no cost idea for the entire community," said Sandler, "and I think it's kind of nice."

Ironically, much the same idea was proposed in Kingston earlier this week. At Monday's public meeting dealing with Community Development plans, Project SCORE director Ron Robinson suggested that the city might consider letting the people grow food on vacant city-owned land, at least as long as the land remains empty. But unlike the reaction Sandler got in Ellenville this week, city officials haven't expressed much enthusiasm for Robinson's suggestion.

City Hearing...Controversy Looms

KINGSTON

The Laws and Rules Committee of the Common Council hosts a public hearing to-night at city hall on a pair of amendments to the city's zoning ordinance that could lead to some controversy.

Topping the list is a proposal to add a new section called "Neighborhood Business."

Next is an amendment that would allow "Cluster Development."

Third is a new section establishing "Group Care Facilities" or to use another term, "halfway houses."

Laws and Rules Chairman Alderman Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward) says the new sections proposed are really not new, in some instances, rather the description of ongoing operations is new.

"Neighborhood Business," Quick says, refers to the small retail outlets such as barbershops, beauty shops and grocery stores scattered throughout the city but which are now classified as "commercial."

Quick suggests that the term "commercial" may be appropriate for the existing business but if that business were discontinued or sold, the commercial zoning would still be there and as such somewhat opened. Neighborhood business, Quick says, would be more restrictive.

He emphasizes that it will not change the status of any existing business, adding that it will not be necessary (if the amendment is approved) for any business to take any action such as applying for the new designation. It will be automatic.

The "Cluster Development" is common to some cities where land is scarce. It is primarily a housing development, often with attached single family units that seldom exceed two stories. Quick says there is no provision in the city's present ordinance for cluster development which falls somewhere between apartments and single family residents. Quick said the ordinance would also apply to condominiums.

The city has something specific in mind in regard to the "group care facility" provisions.

posals: a new building on Murray Street on land owned by the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency. The Association for Retarded Children seeks approval for a half-way house for up to seven adults who will be working members of the community. There will be on site supervision.

Also on tap is a request concerning a medical office at 100 Wall Street. Permission is sought to change the zoning from R-1 to O-2 (office) in order to convert an apartment in the building into another medical office.

The public hearing will be held at 7:30 p.m. in Council Chambers, city hall, 1 Meadow Street.

Schermerhorn Raps Plan

KINGSTON

State Senator Richard E. Schermerhorn (R-40th District) came out in opposition today to plans by the Kingston Schools Consolidated Board of Education to build a $15 million high school in Lake Katrine.

Stating that he had received many letters of opposition to the proposal, Schermerhorn said, "The taxpayers are concerned that the board is reportedly proposing to purchase nearly 70 acres of land when they own considerable acreage within the city of Kingston. They are also concerned with the mass busing program that would be required to transport children to and from the site."

Citing the declining birthrate and the impact of abortion since 1970, Schermerhorn said "it is my opinion that it is not necessary to build any new schools in the Kingston area at this time. The monies available should be directed towards quality education and by that I mean teaching the three R's and maintaining discipline in the schools in preparation for our children's futures."

The three-term senator from Orange County also noted that Gov. Carey's budget called for a reduction in school aid for the 75-76 fiscal year. "How can any Board of Education consider large spending programs at this time?" he asked.

He also suggested that it was his understanding that construction programs on the magnitude planned "must come to referendum" and "I would urge the voters in the Kingston School District to vote against it."

School officials were in court on Tuesday on a condemnation proceeding involving 28.475 acres at Lake Katrine owned by the Vasilevich family.

Court records show that the school district has offered the Vasilevichs $267,665 for the land but that the family has demanded $365,100. The land would be used for athletic fields whereas the remaining 40 acres would house the physical plant.

Walter Vasilevich testified that "at this time we are not looking to sell our property. It is not a question of price." He suggested that some 30 acres on the other side of Leggs Mills Road owned by Carmine Sabino could serve the purposes of the board.

Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley reserved decision.

Comments On Contract

KINGSTON

"Capsule comments from Ulster County legislators during the roll call vote which ratified (25-4) a contract with the Ulster County Civil Service Employees Association.

• Louis H. Bevier (R-8th Dist.)—"This has been the most chaotic negotiation in my term of office. I think it has been handled rather badly, not by UCCSEA but by the county."

• James J. Carroll (D-3rd Dist.)—"The union ratified this contract by 207 to 11 and that's good enough for me."

• Glenn A. Debrosky (R-6th Dist.)—"I think the highway department feels it will get a 28-cent across-the-board raise but only new employees will get that. I don't feel this is a good contract."

• John H. Dwyer (D-3rd Dist.)—"Nobody has come up with a good alternative."

• James F. Gilpatrick (D-3rd Dist.)—"I don't think this was the best contract we could have gotten. It will not bring up payrolls as far as some people think it will."

• Dr. Gerald P. Gorman (D-3rd Dist.)—"We made a serious labor relations error. I don't think this is a perfect document . . . but it is acceptable."

• Eugene B. Houck (D-7th Dist.)—"Some legislators fought harder for (low salaried employees) than their negotiating team did."

• George A. Kirk (R-4th Dist.)—"Inequities still exist. Why do we come up with a contract no better than before?"

• Louis M. Klein (D-6th Dist.)—"This contract goes a long way to correct some inequities that exist."

• Thomas W. Roach Jr. (R-8th Dist.)—"There are inequities but employees are definitely better off than before."

• William R. West (R-4th Dist.)—"We are compounding inequities and will have to live with them for many years. I think some people are horribly underpaid and others are overpaid."

Eight Sentenced In Court

By MATT SPIRENG

KINGSTON

Two young men — one of whom was allowed out from behind bars briefly last month to get married — were sentenced Wednesday on first degree robbery charges to 2½ to seven years in state prison. The sentences were the stiffest of eight handed out during the day's proceedings by County Judge Raymond J. Mino.

Ralph Countryman, 20, of Napanoch and Robert Young, 22, of Indianapolis, Ind., both AWOL Marines, had previously pleaded guilty to the felony charge stemming from the alleged theft last June of a car at gunpoint from an Accord man.

Young, Countryman and Terry Krom (now Terry Countryman), 19, of Ellenville, who also allegedly took part in the theft, were picked up in Indiana and returned to Ulster County several days after the theft. Countryman pleaded guilty to grand larceny previously and is awaiting sentencing.

Young and Countryman are to serve their prison terms at Clinton Correctional Facility in Dannemora.

Other sentences included: • Nicholas V. Malanios, 21, of Pottstown, Pa. was sentenced to 1½ to 3 years at Clinton Correctional Facility on a charge of third degree attempted burglary. Malanios was arrested last Sept. 5 after a lengthy manhunt on a charge of manslaughter following the death of a Woodstock man. However, the grand jury failed to return an indictment on that charge after a medical report was received showing that the dead man may have died of a drug overdose and not of injuries sustained in a fight with Malanios, according to authorities. The burglary charge stemmed from action by Malanios as he attempted to elude police.

• Michael Traficanti, 21, of RD 1, Box 36, Kingston was sent to Dannemora for a 2 to 4 year term on a second degree forgery charge stemming from a 21-count indictment against him.

• Thomas Silva of Napanoch was ordered committed to a 1½ to 3 year term at Clinton Correctional Facility on a charge of attempted possession of a forged instrument in the second degree.

Charges against Traficanti and Silva stemmed from separate alleged incidents last year.

Malanios also face other sentencing proceedings in city court on Friday in connection with an alleged escape attempt during January from the Ulster County Jail. They have all pleaded guilty to attempted escape charges in city court.

• Jerry J. Aquino, 19, of Kearny, N.J. was sentenced to a maximum of five years at the State Correction Department "Reception Center" at Elmira. Aquino previously pleaded guilty to second degree robbery and criminal possession of stolen property in the third degree.

The charges against Aquino stemmed from an alleged robbery last October at a Town of Saugerties liquor store. Aquino was arrested following the robbery along with a second New Jersey youth. The second youth is being held pending further court action.

• William Malloy, 21, of Napanoch was sentenced to five years probation on a heroin possession charge. He was arrested in 1973 following an alleged sale of heroin to an undercover agent.

• Diane Freer, 23, of Saugerties also was sentenced to five years probation on a charge of attempted possession of heroin.

Heidelberg Chamber Orchestra's Concert Set

The Heidelberg Chamber Orchestra's Mid-Hudson Valley concert will be held in Trinity Lutheran Church, Spring and Hones Streets, Kingston, on Thursday Mar. 6 at 8 p.m.

The Heidelberg Chamber Orchestra was founded in 1961 by Dr. Klaus Preis, distinguished harpsichordist and President of Da Camara Recording Company, Mannheim, Germany.

Dr. Preis is a world renowned specialist in Baroque music having devoted much time in the search for lost Baroque compositions in Europe's archives, locating lost compositions and adapting these for performance by the Heidelberg Chamber Orchestra.

Since the Orchestra's establishment in 1961, it has become one of Europe's most outstanding music ensembles performing over 1500 concerts throughout Europe, as well as numerous Radio Concerts. Recently, the Orchestra was awarded the "Golden Disc" for its first million records sold.

Although this is their first trip to the USA, the H.C.O. is not unknown here, having been recorded by the Musical Heritage Society performing works by Bach, Hasse, Fischer, Buxtehude, Telemann and Albinoni.

The most acclaimed compositions performed throughout Europe are Bach: Brandenburg Concerto, Antonio Vivaldi: The Four Seasons and Handel: Firework Music. The latter was recently performed at the Heidelberg Castle outdoors with actual fireworks bringing to an end a most successful concert tour in Germany.

The Heidelberg Chamber Orchestra is composed of 13 pieces including violins, violas, cellos, bass, flute and harpsichord.

The H.C.O. began its premiere tour in the United States on February 16, 1975 playing Vivaldi's "Four Seasons" and three concertos for flute and chamber orchestra in various cities throughout the Middle Atlantic States.

Dr. Preis says that all U.S. concerts will be performed in churches as they are in Europe.

To offset the expenses of travel, there will be an admission of $4. Tickets will be available at the church on the night of the concert.

Jim Altee Group at Paltz

"The word used to describe the most definitive category for their sound is, perhaps, jazz-rock." This is how one newspaper described the Jim Altee Group just before the band's performance last month in Woodstock's Cafe Espresso.

Altee will be performing at State University College at New Paltz, February 28 at 9 p.m. The band has just completed a number of engagements in Ohio and will be playing concerts in New York for the next few months.

Altee, a pianist with 17 years' experience, is a native of Ohio; the rest of the group is from New York. The percussionist, James McGowan, studied painting at New Paltz while pursuing his musical career. He has performed with Martha Valez and Home Cookin'.

Phillip Platten, bass guitar, studied social work at the Rochester Institute of Technology before turning to music. Guy Walker, lead guitar, has played with and written for the Joe Savage Experience.

The concert at New Paltz will be given in the Student Union Building multipurpose room. Tickets can be purchased at the SUB information booth on the night of the performance. The show is sponsored by the Student Government Association.

Dr. Lamb Loose Teeth Can Be Saved

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB: — I missed your column on how to save teeth. I saw where another reader wrote you to say she used a similar treatment and still had her teeth 30 years later. I need that information. Could you tell us again, just what we should do about loose teeth?

DEAR READER — I have received more than a thousand letters asking for that column from people who have teeth problems. My mail suggests you are not the only one who missed it. The original column was in answer to a young man, 33 years old, who was about to lose his teeth from pyorrhea.

This is a common problem in our society. The teeth get loose and pockets develop between the gingiva and the teeth. Food particles accumulate and make it impossible to keep the teeth clean. Often these pockets become infected, adding to the problem.

The bone around the teeth begins to dissolve causing the teeth to loosen and finally leading to losing the teeth if the process is not stopped.

I recommended, and will again, that anyone with this problem should see a dentist. The young man who wrote stated that he had seen a dentist who had told him nothing could be done about his problem. I strongly disagree with this attitude, as I know many cases where the problem has been controlled. Most modern dentists believe a lot can be done to save teeth in this condition.

The first step is a good cleaning of the teeth, removing plaque and infected material from around the base of the teeth. Your dentist will have to do this for you. If you have a lot of pockets around the teeth he may even want to remove some of the excess tissue to eliminate the pockets. The dentist who does this type of work is called a periodontist — a specialist on problems of the sort that affect the tissues around the teeth.

There are a lot of causes for this condition, not just one. There are good animal studies showing that a calcium deficient diet can cause the bone to absorb and lead to loose teeth, infected pockets and the whole problem. Any of the medical disorders that lead to bone resorption can be a factor. The first sign of bone resorption that later affects the spine and other parts of the body (osteoporosis) is often loose teeth.

Dental hygiene is important. That includes how you care for your gingiva. Nutrition is an important factor and so is smoking.

The program I recommended, while your dentist is cleaning up your teeth, is to be sure you are getting plenty of calcium in your diet. That means the equivalent of at least one quart of milk a day. Also take plenty of vitamin C. Some people have marginal vitamin C deficiencies that contribute to the problem. I know of many cases where taking 1000 milligrams of vitamin C a day in addition to proper dental care, has helped clear up this problem within three months. This amount is not enough to cause any harm and may help a lot.

Finally, if you smoke, stop. Tobacco in any form is hard on the teeth and surrounding structures.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of The Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on balanced diet, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for the "Balanced Diet" booklet.

This 'Counselor' May Need Help

By Abigail Van Buren
1975 by Chicago Tribune
N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband was just 50. All of a sudden, Melvin started changing his shirt three times before going to work. He was working overtime, putting extra miles on his car, but was always short of money, so I figured something was up.

I asked a few questions, put two and two together, and found out the reason. She is a 24-year-old girl who works where Melvin works. She worked all summer in hot pants, and the place was air-conditioned. I understand that "Hot Pants" has been having lunch and coffee breaks with my Melvin, and they use the company parking lot for a "lover's lane."

When I asked Melvin about "Hot Pants" he said the poor kid has had a lot of problems, and he's been helping her get her life straightened out. Abby, that "poor kid" is divorced, has two kids, and makes $5.50 an hour. People who have seen her say she could win a Miss America contest if she put a sack over her head.

How do I keep Melvin from making a fool of himself over her?

MELVIN'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: It may be too late. But if he's acting as a counselor for her, he may need a counselor himself. Don't nag or humiliate him. A man in the foolish 50s needs an understanding wife.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to something you recently had in your column. I quote:

"What's the difference between a lady and a diplomat?"

When a diplomat says 'yes,' he means maybe.

When a diplomat says 'no,' he means no.

When a diplomat says 'no,' he's no diplomat.

When a lady says 'no,' she means maybe.

When a lady says 'maybe,' she means yes.

When a lady says 'yes,' she's no lady."

Your comment: "Thanks for a dandy day brighter."

Abby, that joke is indeed old, and should be dead. It's a degrading sexist gambit that makes invalid assumptions about women, and furthermore renders them powerless. I wish to amend that old story to read as follows:

I care not about diplomats, but,

When a woman says "yes," she means yes.

When a woman says "maybe," she means maybe.

And when a woman says "no," she means no.

And if a man persists, or uses force . . . he's a rapist!

CAROL IN HILO
DEAR CAROL: Thanks for setting me straight. I deserved it.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What 'Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE
GET A BUCKET—OF LOVE—FOR THE BRIDE
Dear Heloise:

I love to give "different" things at wedding showers. A bucket loaded with cleaning supplies; a dish drainer piled high with dish soap, cleanser, scrubber, towels and dish cloths and sponges; things for the desk — pens, paper, stamps, envelopes, stapler, metal file for bills and records. His and Hers beauty kits — toothpaste, shaving cream, after-shave lotion, scented powder, bubble bath, emery boards, etc.

Kitchen gadgets (just look in your kitchen drawer) packed in a vegetable bin; or what about all those wrapping things — foil, plastic wrap, plastic bags, paper plates, napkins, paper towels.

Sometimes I type up several pages of my favorite recipes and put them in one of those colored folders with the pockets and the little metal tabs. In the pockets I put "cents-off" coupons on new products and recipes cut from women's magazines. Then to go with this book, I pack a box of some of the spices called for in the recipes — cinnamon, vanilla, baking powder, soda, salt, pepper, etc.

I guess I make getting shower gifts fun for me and I like to wrap them in fun ways.

Pat

Any of these gifts would make a bride-to-be happy as they are useful gifts. Pat, you are a great friend to have!

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When combining a snack-pack box of cereal and a half pint container of milk, it is best to open the top of the milk container completely and just pour the cereal right in, rather than vice versa as the cereal box might suggest.

Not only is the milk container more spillproof than the small cardboard cereal box, it also provides more room to use your spoon.

Celtics Remember 'Old Knicks'

BOSTON (UPI) — In the not distant past, a Celtic win over the New York Knicks used to evoke the Boston Garden leather lungs to croak a chorus of "We're No. 1."

Yet when the NBA champions embarrassed the inept New Yorkers 121-103 Wednesday night, the hometown faithful merely chortled on the way out. No words were needed following Boston's third mistreatment of New York in 18 days: The Knicks knew who was the better team.

Every basketball fan knows now that Willis Reed, Dave DeBusschere and Jerry Lucas are gone and that the Knicks are rebuilding. But their third straight loss, dropping them farther from a wild card spot in the playoffs, points up a deeper problem.

"At present, I don't think the Knicks really have a goal," said Boston's Paul Silas, who had 13 points and 11 rebounds in the game that was over after 10 minutes of the first quarter. "They keep saying they're going to make the playoffs but they have to believe they can do it. Saying they can do it is one thing and doing it is another. "They're not trying hard on the floor."

Knicks Coach-General Manager Red Holzman, who is scheduled to lose one post at season's end, had a plausible excuse for the most recent blowout.

"We don't have the team we had. Jim Barnett is hurt (deep charley horse) and (Bill) Bradley has a knee problem (he had just two points). I was forced to put the young people in there.

The veteran Celtics ate up youngsters like Jesse Dark, Dennis Bell, Tom Riker and Harthorne Wingo but that came after Dave Cowens and crew had devoured the remaining veterans in the first period.

Boston went on a 27-10 spree after the Knicks had tied the game at 2-2 in the first minute of play. Included in the stretch was a 12-0 streak in which Cowens—ignoring back spasms that struck Tuesday—scored eight of his game-high 24 points. Boston's lead went as high as 26 points in the third period and never fell below 17 points again.

Jo Jo White, one of seven Celtics in double figures with 16 points, said he enjoyed the domination at the start of the game but began feeling sorry for the Knick veterans as the rout wore on.

"After we got the big lead, I started to get embarrassed for the guys who had been on the winning (New York) ballclub," White said. "I shouldn't because no one was embarrassed for us when we weren't going good a few years ago but I did anyhow."

Those remaining Knick veterans played at the poor level of the younger players. Earl Monroe led New York with 20 points but hit on only 7-of-22 shots. Backcourt mate Walt Frazier had four baskets to show for 22 shots and finished with 10 points.

Holzman, outwardly still optimistic, said the Knicks could rebound "to win the next 20 games, who knows? We're still thinking about the playoffs (a wild card berth) and we're only a couple of games out.

"It's still our goal but that means beating some good teams. That's our problem now—we're not winning. We have to go out and win our own games. We can't watch what Cleveland and Houston (the teams ahead of New York) are doing."

In other NBA games, Washington beat Seattle 104-98, Detroit topped Milwaukee 104-84, Phoenix downed Cleveland 116-104 and Portland edged Los Angeles 117-116 in double overtime.

Bullets 104, Sonics 98
Elvin Hayes scored a season-high 39 points in leading Washington to its 19th straight homecourt triumph. Seattle led by 23 points late in the second quarter before the Bullets started hitting and rallied to win. Hayes hit 29 points in the second half.

Pistons 104, Bucks 84
Bob Lanier outscored Kareem Abdul-Jabbar 26-23 in pacing Detroit over Milwaukee, which suffered its fourth loss in a row and ninth in 13 games while sinking further into the Midwest Division cellar. Howard Porter had 21 points and Curtis Rowe contributed 17 for Detroit.

Suns 108, Cavaliers 96
Charlie Scott's 24 points and 21 from Dick Van Arsdale enabled Phoenix to beat Cleveland. The victory moved Phoenix to within 1½ games of second place Seattle in the Pacific Division. Dick Snyder led the Cavs with 22 points.

Trail Blazers 117, Lakers 116
Lloyd Neal tallied a career-high 27 points, including eight in the second overtime period, to lift Portland over Los Angeles and give the Blazers their first win in five years on the Lakers' court. Lucius Allen led the Lakers with a career-high 39 points.

Maryland's Roy Gives Lesson

By IRA R. ALLEN

United Press International

Maryland center Tom Roy spent a good part of Wednesday student teaching at a high school class. Wednesday night he taught Clemson's 7-foot-1 Wayne "Tree" Rollins something about playing basketball.

The 6-foot-9 Roy had 16 points, eight from the foul line, and 12 rebounds to spark second-ranked Maryland to a 79-64 win over No. 15 Clemson. The triumph gave the Terps their first Atlantic Coast Conference regular season championship and an important bye in the first round of the league tournament next week.

"This win is gonna make it a much more relaxed tournament for us," said Roy, who has suffered the frustration of playing behind Tom McMillen and Len Elmore much of his career. Before the season started, the senior from South Windsor, Conn., was to have been Moses Malone's backup but Malone turned pro.

Asked his reaction to the news last fall that Malone would not be arriving, Roy said Wednesday night, "I took a deep breath and a sigh of relief."

Clemson Coach Tate Locke, who once said he could outcoach Maryland's Lefty Driesell in a close game, barred Washington and Baltimore reporters from his dressing room because of stories about alleged illegal recruiting but he did speak briefly to reporters outside.

"The key was Tom Roy—he played great defense—and our inability to score on our fastbreak opportunities in the second half," he said. "The players still think we're a better team than Maryland."

Rollins, who was held to four points and 10 rebounds before fouling out with 5:27 left and the Terps ahead 58-54, had a different view of Roy, whose roughhouse style of play entails screaming and shaking fists at opponents and referees alike.

"Our defense on the inside did a great job for us," he said. "The Terps didn't play very well on offense (shooting only 41.7 per cent compared to a season average of 55), but we came through in the pressure on defense." He said the win gives Maryland a "sure ticket" to the NCAA playoffs and a chance for its first national title.

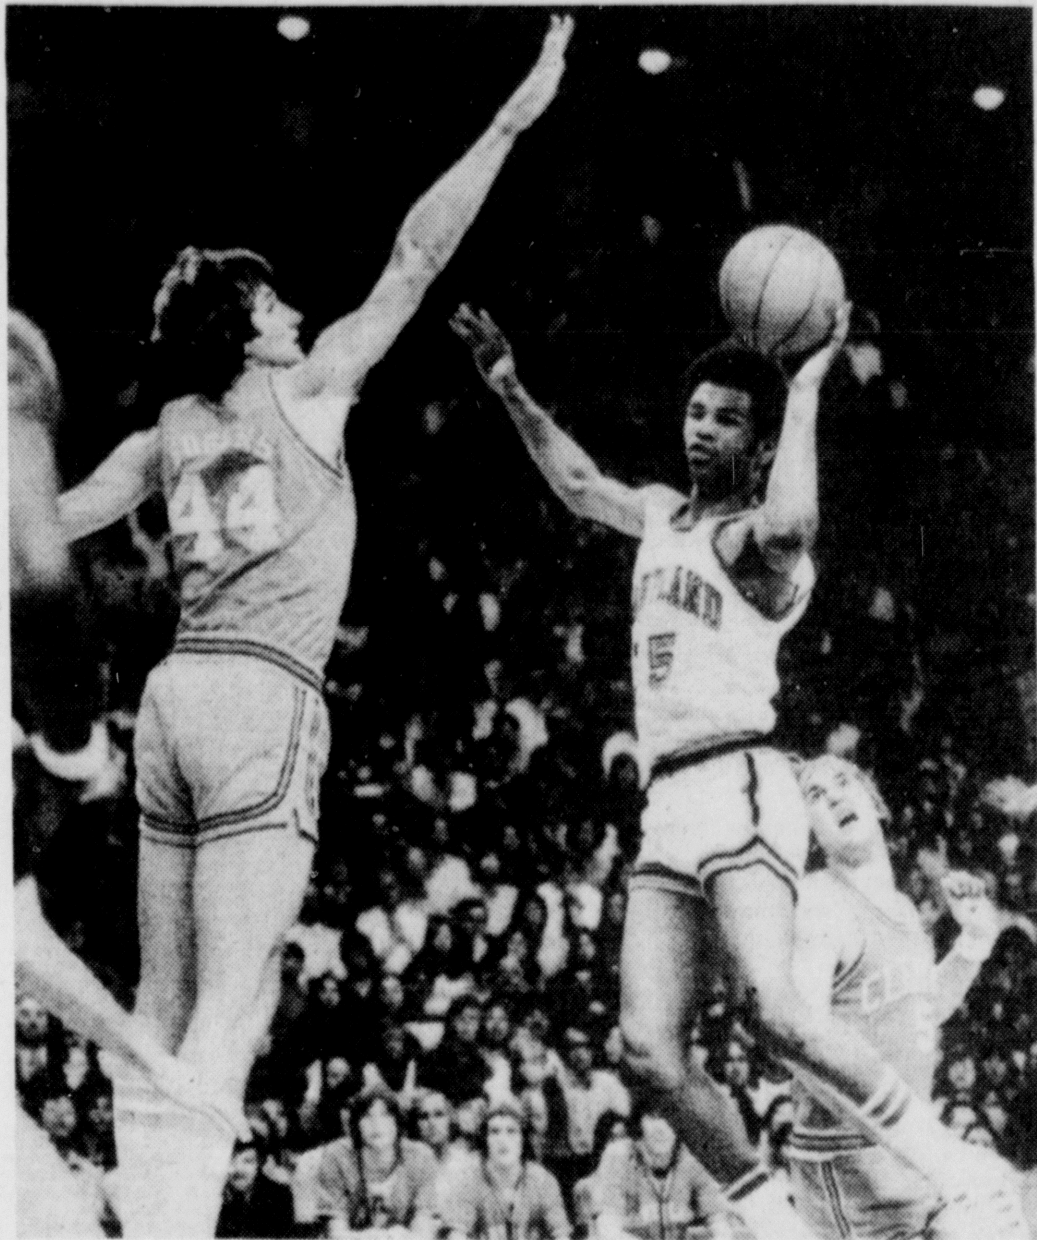

The Terps struggled to a 32-28 lead after the first half, in which the lead changed hands 10 times. Clemson, behind the gunning of freshman Skip Wise, who scored 22 of his 26 points in the second half, went ahead at the opening of the second half only to fall behind by nine in the next five minutes.

Roy had help from Owen Brown, who had 18 points and 12 rebounds in his most consistent game of the year. Brad Davis led Maryland with 20 points.

In other major games, South Carolina got by Canisius 80-75, Syracuse beat Niagara 79-66, Nebraska nipped Oklahoma State 59-58, Denver edged Southern Colorado 74-72, George Washington clipped Georgetown 82-78, Morehead State shaded Marshall 73-72 in overtime, Virginia Tech topped West Virginia 78-68, Kent State shaded Pittsburgh 69-68 and Toledo whipped Loyola (Ill.) 79-62.

Alex English scored 27 points and Tommy Boswell collected 22 to lead South Carolina past Canisius as the Gamecocks raised their record to 16-8. Larry Fogle's 32 points led Canisius.

Rudy Hackett had 25 points and Jim Lee 22 as Syracuse scored the last 10 points of the game to beat Niagara and Steve Erwin's 15-foot jump shot with 1:27 left enabled Nebraska to squeeze past Oklahoma State. Jerry Fort's 21 points was high for Nebraska while K.C. Kincaide led the losers with 15.

Over A Hazard

John Lucas of Maryland tries to shoot over Charlie Rogers (44) of Clemson in ACC championship game in Maryland Wednesday. Looking on is Van Gregg (5) of the Tigers. Maryland won the ACC with a 70-64 victory. (UPI)

Rangers Rip Blues

NEW YORK (UPI)—Eddie Giacomin, getting a three-goal cushion in the opening period, came within two minutes of registering his first shutout of the season Wednesday night, when the New York Rangers gained an easy 5-1 victory over St. Louis to maintain their sevenyear hex over the Blues.

Steve Vickers and Jerry Buter cushioned the Ranger triumph with third period goals that enabled New York to set a club record with 67 power play goals for the season.

New York made Giacomin's job easy by scoring three times within a 5:20 span of the opening period against John Davidson, making his first appearance for St. Louis since Jan. 28. Gilles Marotte started it with a 55-foot blast at 7:14.

Greg Polis followed at 8:46 after a perfect goal mouth pass from Derek Sanderson and Rod Gilbert then notched his 33rd goal at 12:34 on an assist from Polis.

St. Louis has not won a game in Madison Square Garden since 1968 and has been successful there only once in 22 outings.

Elsewhere in the NHL, the Atlanta Flames devoured the Philadelphia Flyers, 7-4 with a sparkling performance by second-year-center Tom Lysiak, who scored two goals and added three assists.

"He's a hell of a hockey player," said Flyer Coach Fred Shero. "I think he's the guy who beat us."

Montreal maintained its four-point lead over runnerup Los Angeles in Division 3 by edging Vancouver 4-3 while the Kings were squeaking by Detroit 2-1. In other action, Pittsburgh beat Washington 3-1; Toronto beat Kansas City 4-2 and Minnesota won over California 3-1.

Dan Maloney scored his 23rd goal at 6:29 of the final period to give Los Angeles victory and a berth in the playoffs. Danny Grant, with his 36th goal, had the only Detroit score.

Jean Pronovost scored the first hat trick of his career for Pittsburgh and Pete Laframboise assisted on all three goals. Ron Anderson averted a shutout for Washington in the final period but the Caps now are winless in 32 road games.

Nick Fires Record 63

LAUDERHILL, Fla. (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus was the leading money winner on the PGA tour for three straight years before being unseated by Johnny Miller in 1974. It appears he's ready to try to reclaim that title.

Nicklaus, fresh off a course record 63 at the tough East course of the Inverrary Country Club during his round with President Ford, ranks as the favorite to play begins today in the $260,000 Jackie Gleason-Inverrary Classic.

Nicklaus, the leading money winner in 1971, 1972 and 1973, sounded the warning call in his charge at the $52,000 first prize following his round Wednesday in a group which included Ford, Gleason and comedian Bob Hope.

"I've worked harder than ever to get ready," said Nicklaus, returning to his adopted home state after three tour stops in California. "I don't know how long it will take to see."

Nicklaus, who now lives in North Palm Beach, Fla., closed with a 65 in last week's Los Angeles Open to finish third. He began Wednesday's pro-am with a bogey before tearing into the 7,128-yard, par 72 layout for 10 birdies.

A total of 150 players are entered in the event, the first Florida stop for the PGA tour. Miller, winner of three tour events and the early runaway leader in money earnings with $113,120, is the most notable absentee.

Other favorites here include Lee Trevino, who won the tournament in 1973 and tied with Nicklaus and two others for fourth place last year; Gene Littler, winner of this year's Bing Crosby tournament; steady U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin, last year's runnerup, and Pat Fitzsimons, the surprise winner of last week's Los Angeles Open.

Dave Cowens (18) of the Celtics drives to the hoop past New York's Tom Riker during game at Boston Garden Wednesday. Cowens had been doubtful starter since suffering from a recurrence of a severe back spasm but recovered to lead Boston to a 121-103 victory. (UPI)

A Matter of Courts

Kentucky Coach Hubie Brown and New York's Kevin Loughery had doubted how important the home court advantage would be if their teams were to meet the Denver Nuggets in the finals of the American Basketball Association playoffs.

"One thing," said Brown after his team lost at Denver 109-107 last Sunday, "is that we and New York are beating them by 18 or so at home and they're only able to beat us here by two points."

Wednesday night, the Nuggets did two points a few better as they hit a sizzling 60.8 per cent of their shots and had eight players in double figures en route to a 148-114 rout of New York.

The win gave the Nuggets a 49-15 record and 11½-game lead over San Antonio in the ABA West while New York fell to 44-18 and a half-game ahead of Kentucky, which is 44-19 after a 101-99 win over Indiana Wednesday, in the ABA East. The team with the best record would have the home court edge should they meet in the playoff finals.

In other ABA games, Memphis beat St. Louis 114-107 and San Diego downed Utah 115-108 in overtime.

Loughery seemed to give up early, taking his entire firststring out with 7:01 left in the third quarter and never putting them back into the game as Denver turned a 70-59 halftime lead into a 108-79 margin going into the final period.

"I left those guys in for the rest of the game because I felt they played better than our starters," said Loughery, whose team had not been beaten by more than 11 going into the game. "If you don't play defense, Denver will beat you and beat you good. It's a great team."

Mike Green led Denver with 21 points while Byron Beck had 18 and Bobby Jones 17. Mack Calvin scored only 13 points but had 15 assists for Denver.

Willie Sojourner and Mike Gale each had 18 for New York while Julius Erving, playing only 24 minutes, had 14, and Larry Kenon, who played 26 minutes, and Billy Paultz, who played only 17 minutes, had 11 each.

UCCC Opens Region XV On Farmingdale Court

FARMINGDALE

Ulster County Community College will embark on a quest for its third Region XV basketball championship tonight at 9 p.m. when it faces Farmingdale in the opening round of the regional tournament.

The Senators are seeded fourth in the eight team tourney, and the Aggies are rated fifth. The winner of the game will meet the winner of the Westchester (No. 1) — Staten Island (No. 8) contest in Friday's semifinals.

In the other bracket, number three Suffolk faces number six Post, and number two New York City meets number seven Rockland in first round matchups. The championship will be played here Saturday.

Ulster finished the season with a 17-5 record, including a win over Farmingdale in Stone Ridge. Injuries and a big loss to Westchester staggered UCCC near the end of the schedule, but coach Mile Bernstein is now confident his team has regained its winning form. The Senators will have all their players ready for action although starters Carl Mabry and Chris Cummings are still nursing injuries.

Farmingdale has never lost to Ulster here, and coach Tom Galezzi expects to keep that record intact. He will rely on a powerful front line led by Rich Addison, the top rebounder in the region. Farmingdale carries a record of 21-7 and has been particularly successful at home.

This is Ulster's fifth journey to the regionals. UCCC won back-to-back titles in 1972 and 1973.

Don't surrender to inflation, enjoy Clan MacGregor.

Bell's Son Recalls Frank Robinson

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI SPORTS EDITOR

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Everybody looks at Frank Robinson differently.

To most of the fans sitting in the stands here at compact, clean-as-a-pine Hi Corbett Field, watching the Cleveland Indians just getting underway with spring training, Frank Robinson essentially is some kind of curiosity, a pioneer, the first black manager in the major leagues.

To his ballplayers, though, Frank Robinson is simply the boss, number 20, the guy who calls the shots. They pay about as much attention to the color of his skin as they do to the color of their baseball socks.

One of the Indians' players, Buddy Bell, their blond young third baseman coming off winter knee surgery, goes back much further with Frank Robinson than any of the others.

Buddy Bell is 23, and with that baby face of his, looks even younger. His father, Gus Bell, was one of Pittsburgh's premier outfielders in the '50's and later played five years with Frank Robinson at Cincinnati.

As a little boy, Buddy Bell would accompany his father into the Reds' clubhouse and he remembers Frank Robinson. Buddy Bell has a lot of his father in him. He isn't a frontrunner. He also remembers Cleveland's last manager, Ken Aspromonte, and how Aspromonte gave him his chance. He's deeply appreciative of that.

"I like Kenny a whole lot," says Buddy Bell, gradually getting his knee into shape here. "I played for him one year in Triple A and three years for him here. I appreciate the way he brought me along and what he did for me. Frank is different than Kenny. He's kind of a quiet guy, a great competitor who really doesn't say very much but gives you a good feeling just by the way he walks around."

"He hasn't said a whole lot to us. I don't think talking is that important."

Most managers give the same talks. Nothing very new."

Standing near the cage Buddy Bell swung the bat he had in his hands. "Most of this talk about Frank being the first black manager comes from people outside baseball. I haven't heard a single ballplayer mention it. His color hasn't even entered my mind. I'm not saying I'm naive enough to think he's white, but to me he's just a manager and I feel he's gonna be a good one because I think he's qualified."

Buddy Bell recalls an episode which took place one day while Robinson and his father both were playing for the Reds in Cincinnati.

"I was in fifth grade and on this particular day I fell off my bicycle and broke my wrist," he remembers. "My mother took me to the hospital and we had to wait an hour and a half in the emergency room. Before going to the hospital, my mother said we could go out and see the ball game but with this long wait and everything I told her we would miss the game."

"We got there in the eighth inning but saw a full game anyway. The Reds were playing the Giants and they went 17 innings. In the 17th, Frank singled off the leftfield wall, driving in the winning run. I remember being mad because the game was over."

Frank Robinson doesn't remember that ball game, but he does remember how Buddy Bell's father used to bring him into the clubhouse.

"His dad was the best hitter on the ball club and one of the best clutch hitters I've ever seen," says the Indians' new manager, never exactly a pushover in the clutch himself.

"When I saw him (Buddy Bell) playing in the big leagues for the first time a couple years ago, I said to myself I played with his dad, was it that long ago, holy smoke! You remember this little kid running around the clubhouse, you remember playing on the same ball club with his father, and, gee, it's weird. But it's a good feeling, too."

Phils Looking

ATLANTA (UPI) — Eddie Robinson, general manager of the Atlanta Braves, confirms that the Philadelphia Phillies are actively seeking slugger Dick Allen.

Robinson said Wednesday he had talked with Phillies personnel director Paul Owens about a one-for-one trade for Allen.

"The players I mentioned were Steve Carleton and Greg Luzinski," he said. "I consider these two to be quality performers and I'd be perfectly happy to trade Allen for either of them."

Allen has said he won't play in Atlanta and he has indicated interest in playing in Philadelphia, his home town.

NEW YORK (UPI) —

Who's No. 1 in world tennis? We'll find out April 26 when John Newcombe and Jimmy Connors face each other across the net at Caesars Palace, Las Vegas, with $250,000 riding on the outcome of the best-three-of-five sets challenge match.

Connors, the 22-year-old lefthander from Belleville, Ill., was voted No. 1 last year by the world's writers, but Newcombe, who won his eighth major title when he defeated Connors in four sets on New Year's Day in the Australian final, disputes the claim.

CBS television and Caesars Palace, the firm which gave you Connors-Laver on Feb. 2, came up with the money for the latest challenge match which could net the players an additional $1 million after all monies have been counted.

Newcombe's lawyers are en route from Australia to discuss how the additional money should be split, but the winner gets the quarter million.

Newcombe, in Australia preparing for this weekend's Davis Cup tie against New Zealand, appeared via closed circuit television at a CBS studio where the match was announced. He smiled when Connors kidded him about being late and about his mustache, then explained why he does not think Jimmy is the world's premier player.

despite his victories in the Australian, Wimbledon and U.S. championships last year.

"I've been at the top 10 years now," said Newcombe. "I've won eight major titles. Jimmy's had one good year. Talk to me about him in 10 years time."

Reminded about Connors' record in 1974, Newcombe countered by saying he was 3-0 against Jimmy, "and I beat him in the first major final of '75."

Asked to comment on Connors' outbursts of temperament on court, Newcombe said, "I enjoy playing Jimmy. I would not presume to tell him how to conduct his public and private life."

Both men agreed that service would be the key to the match — Newcombe's big first ball and Connors' superb return of service.

"I remember the Forest Hills quarters in '73—Newcombe went on to win the title—when John served so very, very well. I seemed to have chalk in my eyes all afternoon as he kept hitting the line. I'll have to get my return working."

Both also agreed that there should be no more than two challenge matches in any year and always in the early part of the season. "We should wait until the major championships are over for the year," said Connors, who admitted he had experienced a "tremendous letdown" after his four set defeat of Laver.

Davis Averages 233

To Pace PBA Tourney

WINDSOR LOCKS, Conn.

(UPI) — Dave Davis of Atlanta, shooting for his 13th tour title, averaged better than 233 pins Wednesday to build a 23-pin lead after the first 12 games in the $100,000 Midas Open Bowling Tournament.

A non-winner since early in 1970, Davis averaged an impressive 238-plus over the opening six-game qualifying round, then saw his production fall from 1,490 to 1,314 as all 176 bowlers completed their second session. His high games in the opener were 277 and 276 but the best he could muster the second time around was 248.

As the lineup moved into Thursday afternoon's concluding set of elimination tests, Davis was being chased by Gary Mage of Seattle, who finished with 2,759 pins on efforts of 1,351 and 1,430. Next in line, 45 behind, was Dick Rütger, the defending champion from Hartford, Wis., who has won only $2,300 this year.

Rounding out the top five positions, the number of men who eventually will make Saturday's nationally-televized finals, were Butch Gearhart of Houston and Ed Ressler of Allentown, Pa. Earl Anthony of Tacoma, Wash., who won last Saturday in Long Island, giving him two crowns this season, was 13th, coming up with 1,401 in the day's second go-round after a poor 1,266 in the morning rolling.

Bobby Jacks, New Orleans, shot a 300 game—the event's first—during the evening block, but the stocky southpaw, who returned to the pro bowling tour this season after a five-year layoff, was far down in the standings at the end of the first day of play.

Sickler and Reynolds: Pair of 266 Shooters

KINGSTON Bill Sickler rolled a 266 solo in the Sunday Nite Mixed League's Silver Division and it was a new league high. Hugh Reynolds fired 266 under excruciating circumstances in the Mannie's Barber Shop League and it fell one pin shy of Joe Spada's league record. Reynolds flitted with a really big one. He left a solid-7 pin on his first ball, then strung eight strikes in a row. With 290 in the wood, his first shot in the 10th frame was light, leaving the 5-pin. He converted the spare. A nine-count would have given him a new mark of 268. Alas, he faltered for a 7-fill and his bid for the record went out the window.

A 169 average bowler, Reynolds had posted somewhat ignominious games (for him) of 147-149. He finished with a 562 series, frustrated by five 7-pin leaves.

Sickler sandwiched his 266 between a 147 opener and 142 for 555. J&G Drywall rolled 909 for new high single record in the Mixer.

Len Miller finished with 620 after 221-244 openers in the Esopus Legion Mixed League.

Shirley Franks and Paula Tentnowski tied with 522s in the Friday Nite Mixer.

Joan Millham paced the Starlighters with 514 and Lee North added 509.

Ken Boughton decked 241-609 in the Miderama and Jerry Sauer led the Sunday Nite Mixed Gold with 608.

Dot Peters fired 527 in the Sawyer Women's at Saugerties.

Sue Dudek decked 200-581 in the Central Rec Women's league. Marian Whittaker added 211-567 and Lois Petramale 520. Debbie Grant rolled a career-first 202.

Paul Saulpaugh stacked 602 in the Volunteer Firemen and Pudgy Dunn led the Booster Mixed with 601.

Ernie Cozza's 245-632 paced the City Minor, where Joe Fautz posted 616.

Bonnie Lindhorst led the Bowlerama Major with 541. Louise Colombino posted 535. Nadja Yonta 212-528 and Mary Gibbons 510.

Ed Chark's 254-619 set a record in the No-Can-Do League.

Bud Lowe set the pace with 654 in the Independent Tavern. Tom Hines fired 618 and Leo Bechtold 603.

Esther Tremper led the Friendship with 204-542. Helen Whiting had 202-530. Doris Hoffman 517. Charlotte Merritt 504 and Flo Beichert 201-503.

Carol Piper paced the Powder Puff with 525 and Linda Thomas' 205-506 set a new Mid-City Quads record.

J&B Lounge, Barbers Winners In Rondout

KINGSTON J&B Lounge and Joe's Barbers scored easy wins in the Rondout Center Basketball League, the Lounge stuffing Gateway Diner 73-44 and the Barbers shearing Mid-City Lanes 51-31.

Bert Henderson rimmed 25 points and Bobby Williams 24 for J&B which led 35-23 at the half. Allen Williams paced the Diner with 12 points.

A 14-2 edge in the third quarter broke the game open for Joe's. Early Edmonds was the top scorer with 14 points.

Phil Timbrouck hit 15 and Matt Howard 12 for the losers.

Buchanan Dethroned

TOKYO (UPI) — Guts Ishimatsu of Japan retained his World Boxing Council lightweight title Thursday night with a unanimous 15-round decision over challenger Ken Buchanan of Scotland.

There were no knockdowns in the championship match before a crowd of 9,000 at the Tokyo Municipal Gymnasium.

Referee Dick Young of Los Angeles scored the fight, 144-142, Judge Harry Gibbs of London, 144-142, and Judge Seiji Ebine of Japan, 149-142, all for Ishimatsu, who was making his third title defense. UPI's card was 148-143 for Ishimatsu on a scoring system based on a ten point must per round.

Both fighters had said they would win by knockouts, but they were evenly matched and the fight went the full 15 rounds.

Buchanan, 29, the WBC top-ranking lightweight contender and the World Boxing Association lightweight champion from Sept., 1970, until June, 1972, was the aggressor all the way with a fast left jab but missed with his straight right throughout the fight.

Had he landed with his punch, he might have defeated Ishimatsu, who surprised observers with an unusual brilliant defensive battle as he managed to Buchanan's right hand swings.

Offensively, Ishimatsu began piling up points by scoring repeatedly with a left to the face, a left to the body and a right cross to the head.

Buchanan slipped to his knees in the 13th round when Ishimatsu rushed him.

Buchanan got off to a good start by taking the first round. He was boxing beautifully and scoring with a left jab to the face. Both referee Young and Judge Gibbs gave this round to Buchanan although judge Ebine called it even.

Both fighters had said they would win by knockouts, but they were evenly matched and the fight went the full 15 rounds.

Section Nine Open Wrestling Saturday

MIDDLETOWN Section Nine's open wrestling tournament concludes Saturday with 20 matmen from the Ulster County Athletic League still alive in the competition.

The tourney — a new concept in Section Nine wrestling — began last week with 400 grapplers from 30 schools together to determine 13 individual champions. This open meet is being tried this year in place of the divisional set up.

After the preliminaries and first round bouts, Tappan Zee is the team leader with 25 points. Ontario is the UCAL's frontrunner with 15½ points, tied for eighth. Rondout Valley has 14½, New Paltz 11, Liberty 9, Red Hook 6, Wallkill 4, and Ellenville and Fallsburgh 2 apiece.

Still in the running from the UCAL are: 101, Tom Barry of Rondout and Bill Wilkin of Pine Bush; 115, Bob McGuire of New Paltz and Steve Coddington of Rondout; 122, Dave Jensen, Ontario; 129, Tony DeBellis, Ontario; 135, Mike Egan, Wallkill; 141, Harris Marcus, Ellenville, Bruce Rhodes, Red Hook; 148, Bob Krom, Rondout; 158, Tim Rock, New Paltz; Ted Nadratowski, Rondout; Bob Nolan, Liberty; 170, Ken Steele, Liberty, Ted Beahm, Ontario; 180, Jacques Hryshko, Red Hook; Bob Fleckinger, Wallkill, Glen Corigliano, Liberty; 218, Bob Kopsick, New Paltz; and 252, Joe Krup, Liberty.

Five To Section One

KINGSTON Kingston High School will send five competitors to the Section One open wrestling meet Friday and Saturday at John Jay High in Fishkill.

The Maroon contingent, headed by Rich Sippel, advanced last weekend by finishing in the top three of their respective classes at the Division III tourney eliminations.

Sippel was the only KHS matman to win his class in the divisionals. The most valuable wrestler at the recent DCSL meet, Sippel beat Lakeland's Jim Bleier, 10-3, in the 167 finals.

Ron Reedy of the Maroons was the other local grappler to gain a berth in the final round. He lost there to Bill Thornton of Arlington, 5-0, at 138 pounds.

Also advancing to the open competition were three KHS wrestlers who won in the consolation finals. They are 105 Steve Yakaitis, 112 Phil Brown, and 250 Charlie Teelon.

Three others, 91 Herb Peters, 119 Emile Jordan, and 132 Doug Reedy, were consolation losers.

Arlington won the Division III team race with 126½ points. Kingston was third with 55, behind Somers, 76½, and Peekskill, 70½.

Saugerties was Division IV win winner with 96½ points and will send nine wrestlers to the open competition.

KHS Skiers Fourth

KINGSTON Skiing Monday in a driving rainstorm and Tuesday on little more than a few patches of snow, they held the Section One meet at Beacon and Big Birch with Yorktown High capturing the team championship.

Kingston, led by captain Tom Spiesman, finished fourth. "The conditions were poor to terrible," said Kingston coach Tony Badalato. "I guess they just had to run the meet to get it out of the way."

The meet was divided into two parts, with the Giant Slalom held at Beacon and the Slalom at Big Birch. Combined times produced a titlist.

Yorktown was best in the Giant Slalom with 330. Horace Greeley was second with 334.5 followed by Byram Hills, 345.1, and Kingston, 354.9. Greeley took the Slalom with 91.5, but it wasn't enough to overcome second place Yorktown (91.6) in the final standings.

KHS tied for fourth with Fox Lane in this competition with 95.3.

Spiesman was seventh in the GS. Teammate Dan Ingalsbe was 16th and Trip Ingalsbe was 26th. In the Slalom, Spiesman, despite one of the best runs of the day, was 18th and Trip Ingalsbe was 19th.

Badalato will be lobbying for Spiesman and Trip Ingalsbe when the Section One team for the State meet at Whiteface is selected. Unlike some sections, this team is chosen by league coaches, not based on the results in the sectional meet.

Kingston finished fourth in the 12-team Tri-County League when it concluded its season with a 95.3-98.2 win over Mahopac. Greeley was first at 11-0 followed by Yorktown, 10-1, Byram Hills, 9-2, and KHS, 7-4.

NPS Women Rip Marist

NEW PALTZ New Paltz State women's basketball varsity jumped to an early lead over Marist College and went on to an impressive 61-43 victory, their fourth in 10 games this season.

Janet Caterina led with 18 points and Marilyn Beaton added 17, as New Paltz ground out a 33-14 lead in the first half. Noreen Drucker had seven points and Lesley Geertsema and Karen Bryan six each.

Squirts Top Sheffield

HURLEY Hurley Squirt hockey team revisited the Berkshire Rink at Sheffield, Mass. last weekend and came away with a 8-1 victory over the Sheffield Warriors. The two teams had opened the season on the same rink in December when the Hurley team won 12-1.

After a slow start, the swift skating Hurley team took a first period lead on goals by Dave Douglas, who had four in the game, and Keith Douglas. They increased their lead to 5-0 after the second period.

Scott Messenger scored his first goal of the year during the middle session. Sheffield averted a shutout with a shutout at the 4:22 mark of the final period.

Dan Caragher and Jeff Hoffstatter completed the Hurley scoring which upped their road season record to 7-1-1.

The team is scheduled to play the Squirt team of the Rockland Youth Hockey League Saturday at Stony Point.

Building Damaged By Fire

NEW PALTZ A two-story building at 11 Main Street in New Paltz was damaged by fire early today which started in a kitchen of a second floor apartment. New Paltz firemen were called out shortly after midnight to the building owned by John Gurrieri, who also occupied one of two apartments on the second floor. Fire officials said fire damage was confined to the kitchen of the second apartment and a section of the roof and ceiling. Smoke and water damage was also reported. There were no injuries. A total of 48 New Paltz fire fighters were at the scene until about 2:30 a.m.

Ford May Strip Options

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. says there will be no across-the-board price cuts, but the No. 2 auto company may try to match its competition and strip some auto options to keep sales moving after rebates end Friday.

Henry Ford II, the chairman, and Lee A. Iacocca, the company president, ruled out wide-ranging price cuts Wednesday, but left the door open for price reductions on some models through removal of standard equipment. That's been the move by General Motors and American Motors to prevent a sharp march sales drop.

Ford and Iacocca told newsmen at the Society of Automotive Engineers banquet that a decision would be made by Friday. Ford said he doesn't expect any March sales slump after the rebates end.

"I'm not too pessimistic now, but still somewhat apprehensive," Ford said. "I do think things will start improving now and March sales should be up."

Ford said his company will produce about 165,000 cars in March, 65 per cent above the February total.

Iacocca said continuation of the rebates has been "virtually ruled out," but he refused to say what would replace them.

"I can't tell you exactly what we'll do because we just don't know yet," Iacocca said. "But I can say we'll try to remain competitive. We always do."

Removing equipment would reverse an industry trend of recent years in which more and more equipment has been added, raising prices and leaving customers with fewer chances to decide which equipment they want.

GM President Elliott Estes this week said maybe the industry "has loaded too much on."

GM last Friday said it was lowering the prices of nine small models on which it had been offering $200 and $500 rebates by taking off some standard equipment. That dropped the base prices by $104 to $314.

AMC followed GM's lead Tuesday, saying it will cut $16 and $25 off two models without changing any equipment and lowering another nine models by up to $198 by removing some standard equipment.

Henry on Arrest: Never Complain

DETROIT (UPI) — "Never complain, never explain," Ford Motor Co. Chairman Henry Ford II says of his weekend arrest and subsequent fine for drunken driving in California.

With that short comment, the auto chief chuckled and headed for an industry banquet Wednesday night where he received a 30-second standing ovation from nearly 3,000 engineers.

It was a spontaneous reaction from the crowd which gave only polite applause to other dignitaries introduced with Ford.

Ford's weekend incident was among the major topics at the weeklong Society of Automotive Engineers convention. He was charged in Santa Barbara, Calif., with drunken driving after his arrest in a car Saturday night with a companion, Kathleen Duross, a shapely 35-year-old Detroit model and interior decorator.

Only talk of auto engines and the local night club appearance of stripper Fanne Foxe drew more attention from the conventioners.

Before the banquet, Ford was asked by a newsmen what he was doing in California with Mrs. Duross.

"Never complain, never explain," was his only reply.

Neither Ford, 57, nor Mrs. Duross, a widow with two children, has had any comment on what the two were doing together in Santa Barbara when a patrolman stopped Ford's car because of erratic driving. The Ford Motor Co. officially will say only that Ford received a "traffic ticket."

Police said Ford failed a sobriety test after being stopped and spent four hours in jail.

170,000 Without Phones In Lower Manhattan

NEW YORK (UPI) — A stubborn fire burned out cables at a major telephone company switching point early today, knocking out at least 170,000 phones in lower Manhattan, authorities reported.

More than 50 firemen suffered smoke inhalation fighting the blaze. Four were hospitalized.

The fire temporarily cut off some financial and business reports that are normally received at United Press International headquarters. It also affected UPI service to some UPI clients in the metropolitan New York area, but did not disrupt service elsewhere.

UPI technicians were working closely with phone company officials to correct the problems.

A New York Telephone Co. spokesman said the smoke and flames roared through the subbasement, the basement and the first two floors of the company's 12-story equipment storage building, a major switching point in lower Manhattan.

He said about 12 telephone exchanges — at least 170,000 phones — were cut off. Firemen were still fighting the blaze at 8 a.m., nearly eight hours after it began.

The company was bringing in mobile phone units from New Jersey and New England to cover hospitals and perform other emergency services.

A spokesman said a small army of "installers, spicers, and technical network people" had been called in to repair the damage.

"They're bringing everything together or person they can borrow or steal," he said.

He also said that "more police have been brought into the lower Manhattan area so that if someone needs to call 911 (the emergency number) and doesn't know about calling the operator or the precinct, they will see a police car on the street."

City, State Police Nab Five for Burglary

KINGSTON Uniformed officers of the Kingston Police Department and Ellenville State Police arrested five youths on burglary charges in two separate incidents Wednesday afternoon in Stone Ridge and Kingston.

City patrolmen Douglas Longto and Donald Playford nabbed two youths as they were allegedly emerging from a vacant Spring Street residence shortly before 3 p.m. carrying three antique chairs.

Robert Longhi, 16, of 34 Hunter Street and Thomas Cossaboom, 20, of 14 Spruce Street were each charged with third degree burglary and were confined in jail in lieu of $2,500 bail pending further court proceedings.

An alert citizen had called police to the house.

Arrested by state police in Stone Ridge were Ernest Casana, 18, David Schmeltz, 17, both of High Falls, and Stanley Mesceda, 18, of Stone Ridge. All three were charged with third degree burglary.

Police said the three were caught allegedly burglarizing a house on Buck Road by Trooper Michael Miszko, Jr.

The trooper was on routine patrol in the area, it was explained, when he spotted a radio lying on the side of the road. He retrieved the radio and checked area houses for signs of a break-in. Finding the burglarized house, Miszko staked it out and a short time later the three youths allegedly drove up to retrieve more items.

Stereo and camera equipment was recovered through the arrest, police said.

Following arraignment, Casana and Mesceda were confined in lieu of $2,500 bail. Schmeltz was released in the custody of his parents.

Bridge Collapse

PHOENICIA A bridge on old Route 28 in Phoenicia reportedly partially collapsed today under the weight of a rental truck which was crossing it. Details of the 10:15 a.m. mishap were not immediately available, but troopers said there were apparently no injuries. Authorities said the bridge is known as McGrath's Bridge.

SEN. CHURCH DISPLAYS BOYCOTT DIRECTORY

Ford Assails Bias List

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For years, it was suspected there was an official Arab blacklist of certain American companies — as well as Jewish entertainers — because of their ties to Israel or the presence of Jews in the corporate structure.

Wednesday, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, released a list of 1,500 companies or groups on such a boycott list, and President Ford denounced discrimination against certain U.S. firms on ethnic grounds as "repugnant." He said if the allegations are true, "appropriate action will be taken."

At the same time, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers admitted that on instructions of the State Department it had complied with the boycott by not using Jews on construction projects in Saudi Arabia.

Those developments came while U.S. and Saudi officials met in Washington on economic cooperation. The boycott question was not on the agenda, but officials said it could come up in private talks.

Ford prefaced his news conference in Hollywood, Fla., with a brief statement on the subject:

"There should be no doubt about the position of this administration and the United States. Such discrimination is totally contrary to the American tradition and repugnant to American principles. It has no place in the free practice of commerce as it has flourished in this country."

"Foreign businessmen and investors are most welcome in the United States when they are willing to conform to the principles of our society. However, any allegations of discrimination will be fully investigated and appropriate action taken under the laws of the United States."

Church disclosed the list of blacklisted U.S. firms at a hearing of his subcommittee on multinational operations.

Col. William Durham, head of the Army engineers, confirmed to Church that Jews were kept off Saudi construction projects. Asked if "you are acquiescing on instruction of the Department of State," Durham said, "As I understand the agreements, yes, sir."

Drop in Clothing Prices Seen Indicator of Easing Inflation

By UPI

Clothing prices are coming down — and it is a major indication inflation may be easing.

A major retailer Wednesday sharply reduced men's clothing prices. Industry officials predicted similar reductions on all lines of apparel soon.

"Things are easing," said an official of the National Association of Retail Merchants, representing 30,000 stores. "We have heard from the field that prices are coming down," she said. "It's in the air."

J.C. Penney, the No. 2 general merchandise chain behind Sears, reduced prices on a wide line of men's clothing by as much as 25 per cent.

"There has been some softening in raw materials prices at the wholesale level that we are passing on to our customers," a Penney spokesman said. "This is not a temporary thing."

Last month, Penney cited lower wholesale prices in rolling back prices on home sewing fabrics.

A spokesman for the American Textile Manufacturers Institute said wholesale textile prices have been dropping steadily since last year's record highs.

A major factor, he said,

"has been a downward trend in the price of raw cotton. Last year, it was at a historic high of 60 to 70 cents a pound. Now it is down to 38 or 40 cents a pound. That's starting to be reflected in whole-sale prices now."

Another important factor has been the slack in consumer demand, creating excess fiber supplies.

Wool prices have fallen from $2.10 to $1.20 a pound in a year's time. The oversupply is such, said Argentina Economics Minister Alfredo Gomes Morales, that Argentina cannot find export markets for its wool.

Rocky to Congress on Recession . . . Get Moving

DETROIT (UPI) — Vice President Nelson Rockefeller exhorted Congress Wednesday night to draw up and pass quickly a program to combat the nation's recession.

Rockefeller told a dinner of 3,000 automotive engineers in Detroit, a city where unemployment is at more than 20 per cent, that if Congress does not want to accept President Ford's economic program, it should "get moving" on one of its own.

"Ford had the courage to give Congress a total program that is like a Swiss watch," he said. "If you take one wheel out of it, it won't run."

"But this country does not have too much time to wait, so we better get going," Rockefeller told the frequently cheering society of automotive engineers.

He said Congress "is patriotic and dedicated just like the rest of us," but he added, "They're undergoing a little reorganization down there and it takes time."

Earlier, he told newsmen that Ford had proposed a tax cut intended to stimulate the economy. But he noted that Congress had not yet acted on a tax cut and "the economy is suffering."

In discussing the energy program, Rockefeller said the nation has spent $25 billion this year on imported oil.

Dems Agree, Disagree on Energy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats talk of an "agreement in principle" on energy, but they disagree on philosophy, approach and timing in seeking to pull together an alternative to President Ford's proposals.

In response to Ford's challenge to come up with a plan or enact his, House and Senate Democratic panels met again today in pursuit of consensus.

Senate Democrats called a caucus this afternoon and may adopt a policy even if no agreement is reached with their House counterparts.

Senate and House Democratic groups are united in rejecting the keystone of Ford's plan, an oil import tariff and removal of price controls on domestic oil.

They disagree on what must be done instead, and on when it must be done.

The Senate committee headed by John Pastore, D-R.I., favors a five cent a gallon increase in the gasoline tax — not to discourage consumption but to raise money for conservation and energy research projects.

The House task force headed by Jim Wright, D-Tex., supports a gasoline tax increase of 16 cents by 1977 to discourage consumption and to achieve Ford's goal of rapid, sharp drop in consumption.

In both bodies, some Democrats disagree with those approaches.

"You can't get total agreement, anyway," says Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii. "I might like three cents, the other fellow likes a nickel."

"I don't know why everybody suddenly seized upon the increase in the gas price to solve our energy problem," said Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash. "An increase in the gas tax falls on the little fellow awfully hard."

One House Democratic task force is considering an increase of 50 cents in the gasoline tax by 1980 under which a motorist would be given coupons exempting him from paying the higher tax on an amount of gasoline necessary for his basic needs.

Failure to wrap up a comprehensive Democratic plan would give Ford a propagandda victory and an advantage in next week's battle with Congress over his forthcoming veto of a bill suspending for 90 days the oil import tariff he has imposed.
